

Tips to help the chicken go further when playing Crossy Road

Crossy Road is easily addictive despite its simple gameplay, bringing the chicken across the road, similar to Frogger's style but with a slight change. Players can collect free gifts in the form of coins and new characters.

The key point is that the player has to get the chicken as far as possible without drowning, being hit by a car or train, or being caught by a hawk. It sounds easy, but Crossy Road requires time, focus and practice. In this article, let's learn some tips when playing Crossy Road, helping players take the chicken as far as possible and achieve a higher score.

Focus on looking ahead

Players tend to look at their characters, but that makes it impossible for people to observe what is going to happen in front of them. Crossing the lane at a time slows down motion. And people will be more likely to get hit before going any further. Think about your path at least 3 steps in advance.

Touch the back of the character

While everyone has to find a way to be as comfortable as possible, make sure you're touching the screen behind your character so you don't block your view. Not only that, if you touch too far to the sides, the character may move in the wrong direction. Please manipulate the touch towards the bottom of the screen to control the chicken, it will not obscure your view and do not make the wrong moves.

Don't hesitate to come back

Crossy Road allows gamers to back into a corner or turn around if there is not enough time to cross the road. Whether the chicken is stuck on the side of the fence or doesn't have time to make its way through the busy traffic, just turn around and wait for a better opportunity.

Swipe aside to save time

Sometimes there will be a slower traffic lane than the others and players find themselves wasting time waiting. Before the hawk appears and grazes the chicken, swipe sideways in the opposite direction of that lane to cross faster.

Jump as close to the back of cars and trucks as possible

When starting to cross the street, jump as soon as cars pass. This ensures that everyone has the most time between cars to get to the next lane. Basically, it is necessary to follow as closely as possible the rear of the passing cars. That way, if you need to pivot or make a split decision, you'll have more time to do it.

Do not try to collect coins

Coins allow the purchase of new characters in the game, other than that, have no effect. Trying to collect coins is a bad move and often ends in failure. Instead, focus on the road ahead and only go for coins that are easily obtainable, directly on the go at the time.
