

Tips to know when playing The Immortal Mayor

The Immortal Mayor is a construction and management simulation game in which the player assumes the role of a local god and custodian of the land. Make friends with other gods and use magic to help your inhabitants build towns, thereby receiving the people's offerings and developing the heroic town.

Here's a beginner's guide to The Immortal Mayor to get acquainted with the game and some tips to help grow the town.

Tips to know when playing The Immortal Mayor

Prioritize tasks to be done first

During the first two years, the player should focus on getting enough food and clothing, as villagers can die without enough survival materials. Make sure to build enough farmland to grow wheat and cotton while establishing enough villagers as farmers. Gamers will also need to open a Tailor Shop and assign some villagers to become tailors so they can process cotton into clothes.

After securing enough food and clothing, the player can move on to another priority, which is to provide enough wood, stone and metal. Metal will be the most important because villagers can use it to make tools. Make sure to set up enough storage for Lumberyards, Quarries, Mines, and villagers so that mining progress is not hindered.

Finally, there are the needs of the villagers, such as housing, entertainment, food, and security. Don't forget to create enough houses, build entertainment areas (such as tea rooms, hot springs, theaters,..) and also many observation towers.
