

Tips to quickly see notifications on iPhone SE 2020

Unlike other iPhones, the iPhone SE 2020 does not support using Haptic Touch to quickly see notifications displayed on the lock screen. However, there are still tips to help overcome this point.

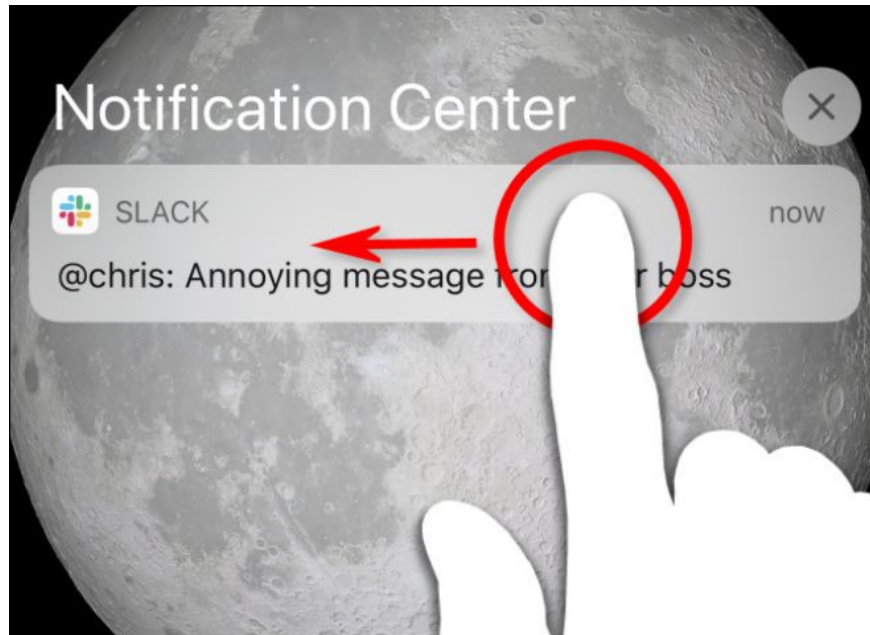

Since it is not possible to press or hold on a notification to see more details of the internal message and take quick actions to store or reply to text messages, the work with iPhone SE 2020 will also apply. for other devices as well.

First, swipe down from the top of the iPhone SE screen to access the notification center.

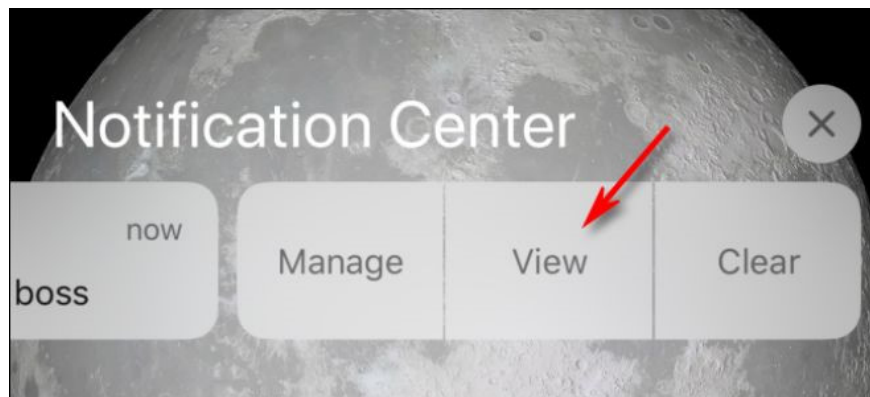

Open notification center

Instead of emphasizing or tapping on the notification, swipe the notification to the left.

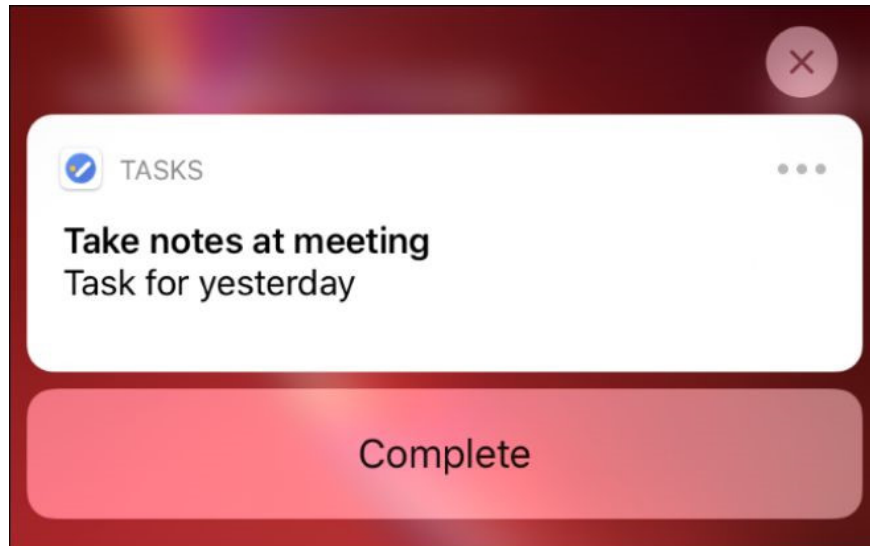

Swipe the notification to the left

For now, click View to see the detailed message and find any quick options.

After touching View, the notification content will expand

Users will see any notification actions provided by the app along with a larger preview.

Everything is done like what the user emphasizes or holds on other iPhone models

This is the same thing that appears with one press or hold on other iPhones with Haptic Touch or 3D Touch. The options available depend on the application. Although it's not as fast as emphasizing or holding down a notification, the options are still quite accessible.

Users can also quickly turn off notifications by swiping. Just swipe to the left of the notification, then click Manage instead of View. In the next menu, tap Turn Off to stop seeing notifications from the app that sent the notifications.

You finished reading the article "Tips to quickly see notifications on iPhone SE 2020" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.