Scientists have measured the fluctuations of emotions and thoughts of people and they have found that positive and happy thoughts like love and gratitude often fluctuate very quickly. However, thoughts such as fear, frustration and jealousy often fluctuate very slowly. This phenomenon is called the Law of Attraction which helps explain the relationship between your thoughts and your life, even the financial situation. To become rich, the first thing is to be aware of the thoughts you have about money. If you find yourself having any negative thoughts, you need to change as soon as possible to become rich. Here are 8 ways of thinking that can help you do that.

1. Believe that you deserve it

In our culture, many people lack confidence. We are often attacked constantly by messages about how we are " not good enough ". Even if we compare our beauty to Oprah's supermodels or bank accounts, you need to believe that you really have something to prove to the world. You have special talents and gifts that will help you become rich. Wealthy people have no trouble promoting themselves, their services and their businesses. Because they believe they deserve it. Therefore, you also need to think so.

2. Believe that it is possible

How many times have you heard your parents say things like " Make money easy? " Or " Do you think your father (mother) can print money? ". Many of us have been programmed to think negatively that money is scarce and hard to find. But actually there is a lot of money to earn, just believe that you deserve it. Anything can happen. However, first you need to believe that can happen.

3. Grateful to what you are

If you just sit there thinking " I don't like this house, I wish I had a bigger one " or " I can't wait any longer because I feel shy while driving this car ", then you're sending Negative fluctuations with my thoughts. According to the Law of Attraction, slow, negative thoughts will not create anything positive. Instead, you need to love the house, the car you have. Or simply you should be grateful that you have accommodation, bed to sleep or food on the table. The more you appreciate what you have, the more likely you are to achieve.

4. Positive thinking about the rich

Sometimes, we often hear negative statements about the rich, such as: " The rich always despise others," or " The rich are dishonest ," " The selfish rich ." If you listen to them many times and then your subconscious is programmed with negative thoughts about the rich. At that time, in your subconscious, you didn't want to be rich because you certainly didn't want to be " snob ", " dishonest ", " selfish ". Instead, think that rich people are good people. Believe that they deserve what they have. Bless them and say " thank you " before becoming rich.

5. Self-affirmation

Writing positive statements (self-affirming) and reading them over and over again in your head will help reconstruct your brain. If in section 4, you think rich people are snobbish, repeat the affirmation, for example: " The rich are generous, kind and love others. I appreciate that one day then I will be one of them . " Daily vision is also very helpful. Take a poster, cut the words and pictures you want. It could be a new car, a big house, an airplane or a private yacht. Anything you find interesting and exciting is appropriate to put into the vision board. Using the ability to assert itself combines the vision table to get the best results.

6. Love money

You've probably heard people say " I hate money" and feel very surprised how can you hate money? The reason they hate money is because they don't have money. That doesn't mean they hate money, but they just hate the lack of money. Don't try to put yourself into negative thoughts, if you still keep bad thoughts about money. Say: " I love money! Money is my friend! It gives me great joy!" . The more you fluctuate in the positive fluctuations of love for money, the easier it will be to achieve.

7. Happiness when paying bills

Surely your belly will be empty before paying the bill? Most people are like that. That's why they often focus on negative points. All they think is how much money is spent, how much is collected. However, you need to correct that thought immediately. Have fun when you pay the bill. Guess why? That means you definitely have money to pay them. If you don't pay, you don't have money. Be grateful for the money to pay. After that, they will provide you with shelter, car to drive, food to eat. That was amazing.
