3. Instagram - Livestream, live streaming on social media

For a long time, Instagram has been a prominent social media app specializing in images and videos, with a large user base worldwide. To keep up with trends and attract more users, Instagram has launched the highly appealing livestreaming feature.

Similar to other professional livestreaming applications, you won't have much difficulty broadcasting live videos on your personal page. According to many users, Instagram's image quality is considered relatively sharp, and the connection is stable. In addition, the application adds unique and diverse visual effects for you to choose from.

9. Bigo Live - Livestream with your idol

If we only consider the features that support users, Bigo Live deserves to be the best livestreaming app to replace Facebook. Bigo is an online social network specializing in video, allowing you to professionally broadcast your own images live with just a few simple steps. At the same time, it's also a way to explore the world, entertain, make friends, and more by watching thousands of other livestream channels.

If you don't want too much noise, you can use Bigo Live as a tool to connect with loved ones by creating a private chat room and inviting friends to chat, play games, or even sing karaoke online together.
