Listening and speaking are the two most important skills that help us connect directly with people around the world. However, to be able to meet foreigners, chatting naturally with them and having a real environment for training is not easy for many people. It is for this reason that language learning in the Language Exchange method is gradually becoming the ideal choice for many language learners.

Language Exchange is exactly what it describes: Language exchange. For example, you are a Vietnamese person who will teach Vietnamese to an American and they will teach you English again; You teach Vietnamese to a Frenchman and they will teach you French again. However, there are some points to emphasize here:

1. Each person (most) is not a foreign language teacher like a foreigner at the center. Both of you are merely learners, and support each other.
2. Learning will become much simpler, more comfortable and more natural than when taught by foreign teachers.

3. Because the approaching friends are not teachers, they often cannot show you all the grammatical structures, the way of writing according to the principles of writing or orthodox rules, and at the same time with the problems. The problem is deeply related to language, they are difficult to answer for you. However, in return, you will easily make friends with foreigners, grasp many idioms, slang everyday and know how to speak more naturally.
4. Should search and exchange languages ??with native people, such as English, American (if you want to learn English), German (German) ., as this will help you to "level" quickly more and learn how to use foreign languages ??more accurately.
