

Top 32 architectural masterpieces in the world should visit once in a lifetime

On the Business insider page, there are 32 unique and magnificent architectural masterpieces that each of us should visit once in a lifetime. Invite you to admire!

On the Business insider page, there are 32 unique and magnificent architectural masterpieces that each of us should visit once in a lifetime. Invite you to admire!

Sagrada Familia Cathedral in Barcelona, ??Spain is a great work of mankind, a wonder of the world. The great Antoni Gaudi church building in Barcelona began construction 133 years ago. The Sagrada Familia Basilica is still several decades away from completion, but it is still considered one of the world's top tourist attractions.

"La Sagrada Familia", a project started construction in 1882. Photo source: David Ramos / Getty Images
The oldest building known as Göbekli Tepe in Turkey. Built around 9500 BC, current archaeologists have not clearly confirmed the function of this work. However, this may be a form of religious work.

Photo source: Teomancimit / Wikimedia Commons

Since then, people have started to build structures that are quite complex. In recent years, we have seen modern-trend buildings like the New York Fulton Center with glass and steel arches.

Photo source: Spencer Platt / Getty

. and Penleigh and Essendon Grammar schools in Melbourne, Australia have eye-catching colors. At the same time the steep walls help the house bring comfort to students.

Photo source: World Architecture Festival
Golden Temple in Amritsar, India, the center of Sikh Faith.

Photo source: Arian Zwegers / Flickr
The sacred temple for Sikh devotees all over the world becomes extremely brilliant at night.

Photo source: Munish Sharma / Reuters

Taksang Paro Monastery is one of the holiest places in Bhutan, fully known as Taksang Palphug monastery and is known under the English name The Tiger's Nest Monastery. Taksan Monastery is located on a cloudy cliff of towering clouds overlooking the Paro valley, which is over 3,000 meters above sea level, about 900 meters above the Paro valley. If you are a Buddhist believer, Taksang Palphug monastery is a great destination for you.

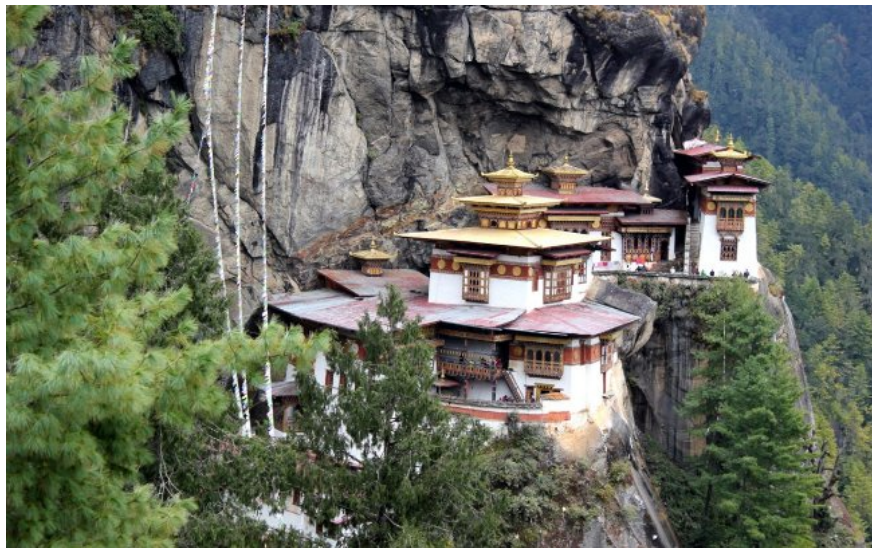

Photo source: Nagarjun Kandukuru / Flickr

Las Lajas Cathedral in Narino, Colombia, is also a marvelous and artistic architecture.

Photo source: Diego Delso / Flickr

Architect Antoni Gaudí has not survived to see his Sagrada Família completed. However, in fact, this work is still being built. Outside looks like something in Narnia .

Photo source: Shutterstock

. And even the interior is more surreal.

Photo source: Shutterstock

The Flatiron building in New York is one of the first skyscrapers in the world .

Photo source: Mario Tama / Getty

. Or Woolworth Building (Woolworth Building) - the tallest building in the world from 1913 to 1930.

Photo source: Ludovic Bertron / Flickr

In Onomichi, Japan, couples often go to the Ribbon Chapel to celebrate the wedding.

Photo source: World Architecture Festival

Surrounded by the green of the trees is the Light of Life Church in Seoul, South Korea.

Photo source: World Architecture Festival
The inside of the church looked completely different.

Photo source: World Architecture Festival
The Marina City apartments in Chicago are uniquely designed. Built in 1964, they were one of the first multi-purpose buildings and were first built with cranes in the United States.

Photo source: Cdelmoral / flickr

However, not all buildings are skyscrapers. The Temppeliaukio Church in Helsinki is built like an underground stone tunnel but still receives a lot of sunlight.

Photo source: Jorge Láscar / Flickr

St. Church George in Lalibela, Ethiopia is carved from a single rock in the 12th century.

Photo source: Shutterstock

Some of the works bring harmony to the natural landscape. Turninn building in Reykjavík reflects Iceland's unspoiled beauty.

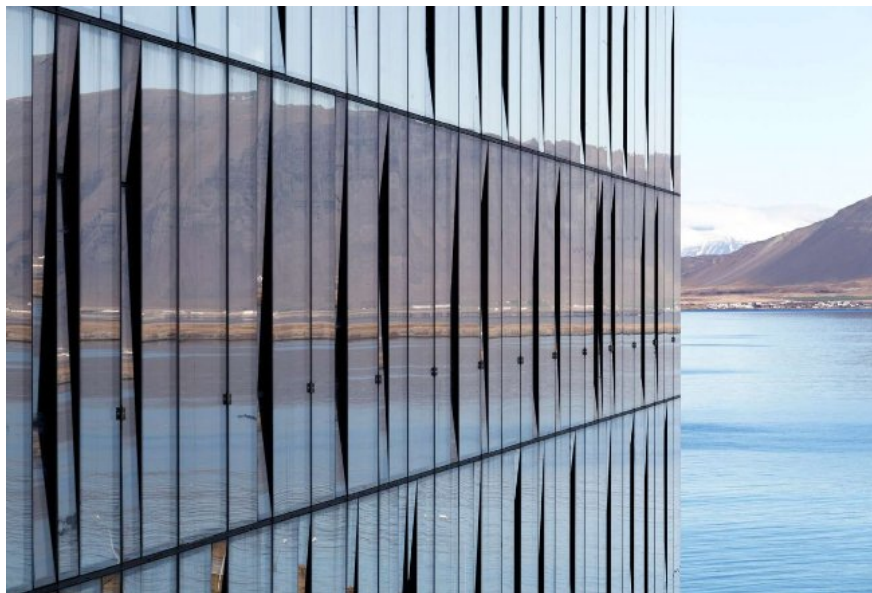

Photo source: Courtesy of Architizer.

The Nationalgalerie Neue in Berlin, designed by the famous architect of the modern school Mies van der Rohe, was built in the 1960s. Harmony with nature is one of the oldest ideals of architecture.

Photo source: Seier + seier / flickr

Berlin is like a mecca of electronic music with masterstroke brutalist Berghain.

Photo source: Michael Mayer / flickr

The ancient capital of Kyoto, Japan is more prominent with the highlight of Golden Pavilion .

Photo source: Freedom II Andres / Flickr
. And even more subtle with Silver Pavilion.

Photo source: Reginald Pentinio / flickr
Djenné's mosque in Mali is the largest mud architecture in the world, which has a capacity of about 3,000 followers.

Image source: 37degrees / flickr

Sheikh Zayed Grand Mosque is located in Abu Dhabi, opened 10 years ago and has now become the leading place of worship in the UAE.

Photo source: Hashim Binsuwaif / Flickr

The bizarre Pompidou Center in Paris is a postmodern masterpiece that excelled at the structure of the building.

Photo source: Shutterstock

Built around 1200, Chartres church in northern France is a typical example of Gothic architecture.

Photo source: Shutterstock

. And inside is a beautiful interior.

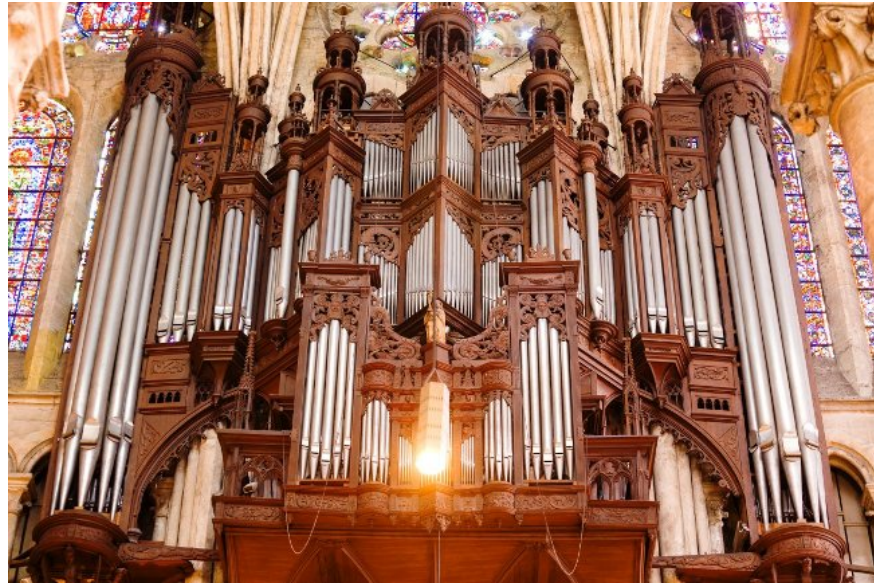

Photo source: Shutterstock

The Blue Mosque in Istanbul was built in the 1600s at the height of the Ottoman Empire.

Photo source: Shutterstock

The interior is outstanding with over 20,000 hand-crafted bricks and tiles.

Photo source: Shutterstock

Neuschwanstein Castle in the German state of Bavaria was inspired by Walt Disney to create a castle in the movie " Sleeping Beauty in the Forest ". It's easy to understand why this castle is so inspirational.

Photo source: Sean Gallup / Getty

Trinity College College in Dublin means the Unitary Trinity, affiliated with the University of Melbourne, founded in 1872. From a school of humanistic and social education of humanity to the original Anglican clergy, Now Trinity College has grown into a leading learning center.

Photo source: Chris Jackson / Getty

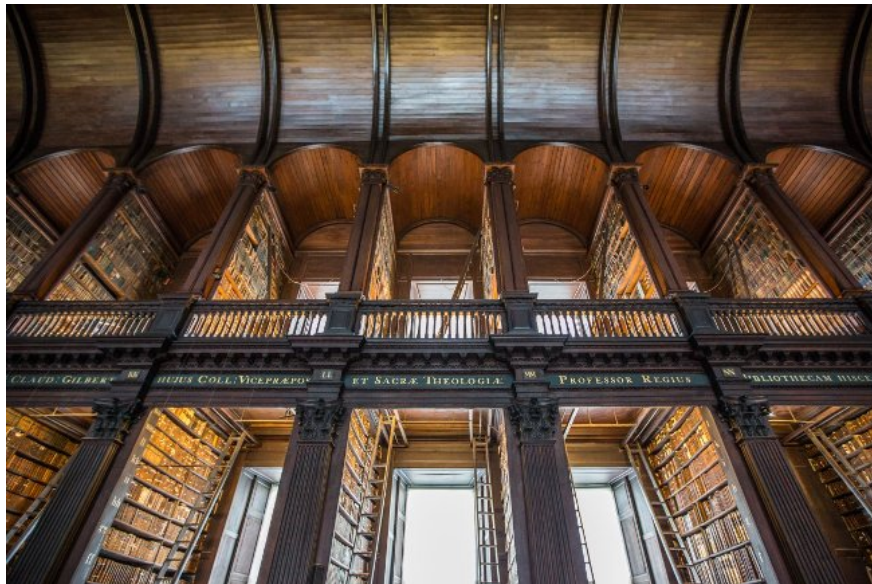

Photo source: Tony Webster / Flickr
Forbidden City - the pinnacle of Chinese architecture .

Photo source: Lintao Zhang / Getty
. The royal residence from 1420 to 1912.

Photo source: See-ming Lee / Flickr
Inside details .

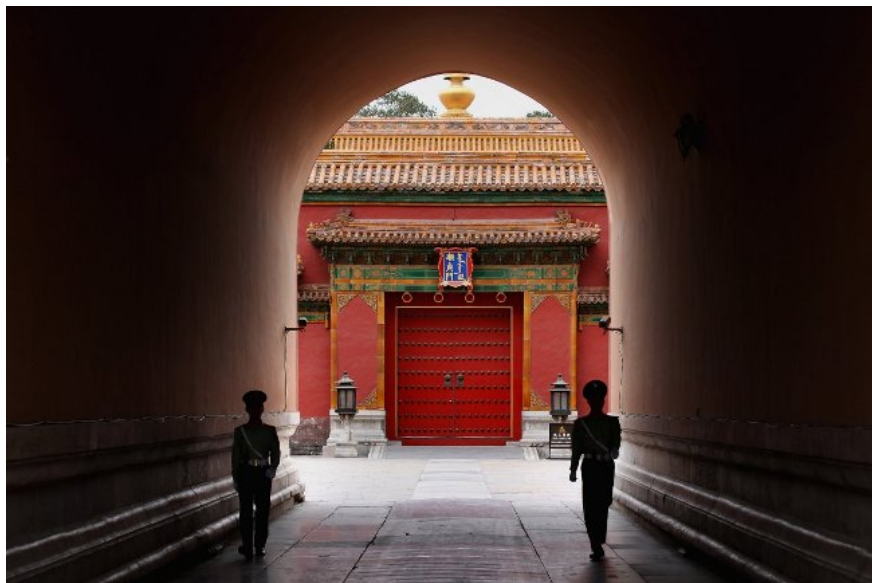

Photo source: Feng Li / Getty

Photo source: Drolexandre / Wikimedia commons
New architectural form - CCTV Tower was built in Beijing.

Photo source: Getty
Hongkong Polytechnic University was designed by architect Zaha Hadid.

Photo source: ?? ? ?? ?? Forgemind ArchiMedia / Flickr

Located high in the Peruvian Andes, Machu Picchu is the best example of the Inca architecture.

Photo source: Shutterstock

Archaeologists say that Machu Picchu was built around 1450.

Photo source: Wikimedia Commons
This is a closer shot.

Photo source: Christophe Meneboeuf / Wikimedia Commons
Opened in 2007, Parque Biblioteca España in Medellín, Colombia was designed by Colombian architect Giancarlo Mazzanti.

Photo source: Dr EG / Flickr

Main view of Medellín from inside the library in Santo Domingo Savio neighborhood, in a valley surrounded by the Andes.

Photo source: Kevin Loria / Tech Insider

Sydney Opera House is the symbol of Australia.

Photo source: Daniel Munoz / Reuters

Designed by Danish architect Jørn Utzon and opened in 1973, it has become the symbol of Australia.

Photo source: Tim Wimborne / Reuters

And this is the inside image.

Photo source: Jason7825 / Wikimedia Commons

Refer to some more articles:

1. 22 magnificent pictures of the wonderful world around us
2. Contemplate inside the $ 250 million mansion of the super rich world in America
3. 12 caricatures of real life make you ponder

Having fun!

You finished reading the article "Top 32 architectural masterpieces in the world should visit once in a lifetime" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.
