Groza

After the recent buff in OB32, Groza has regained his place and once again holds the title of best weapon in Free Fire. Overall, Groza has the high damage of an AK and a fast fire rate, causing an amazing level of DPS.

However, Groza is quite difficult to obtain as an airdrop weapon, but is well worth using.

Kingfisher

This is the newest AR gun in the game, but has become one of the most popular weapons since the FF OB32 update. While the other stats are just average, the Kingfisher's rate of fire is phenomenal. It is the fastest AR auto in the game and can deal massive damage.

Furthermore, it is also the lightest rifle in the game, with a movement speed of 89. Players using the Kingfisher will have much greater mobility.

M4A1

The M4A1 is the most practical choice for those new to Free Fire. It has the highest effective range and excellent accuracy, allowing most shots to deal significant damage even if the target moves.

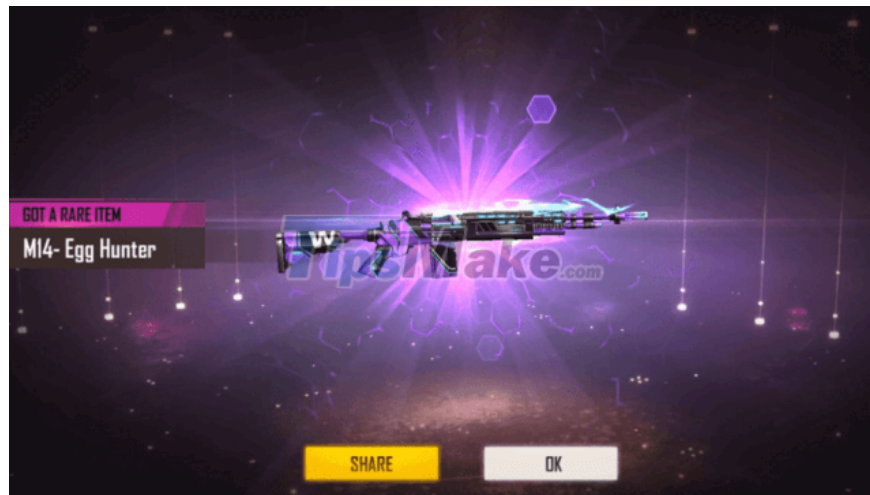

However, you need to take it with all the accessories that come with it to reach its full potential. It's pretty weak when you first pick it up and needs the right range to shoot effectively.

M14

The M14 is a hybrid weapon between marksman and AR. In return, the gun's attack speed is lower, has an amazing range of damage and range. The variant X version of the M14 is truly the best weapon in the game, with an attachment that increases its rate of fire exponentially.

Players should try to find a scope immediately if they plan to use the M14.

AK

After all these years, the AK is still and a formidable gun in the AR class. It has high recoil and low accuracy, but in return has great damage and range. If the player can control AK's recoils, it can damage most enemies in mid to long range skirmishes.

It is important that you stay calm when using an AK because it has a high recoil that makes it difficult to hit anything. You must find the front stock or gun attachment as soon as possible to reduce its recoil to an acceptable level.

AUG

The AUG is one of the few weapons that has increased in power quite a bit in the new update. Its stats are now among the highest with a decent standard fire rate, damage, accuracy, and movement speed. The AUG is also bundled with an X2 scope, allowing players to engage in combat immediately.
