The strongest champions URF 2019 League of Legends

Lux

The lady of light will be an extremely inhibiting champion for enemies with the Supreme Rainbow skill (R). Quick cooldown should be able to spam, not consuming energy so she can deal long-range damage freely without fear of opponents can counterattack.

In addition, the combo of Light Lock (Q) and Light Ball (E) is also quite good control and deals fairly effective damage to enemies.

Malphite

Malphite is also a very annoying general with Unbreakable skill, he will throw everything on the road if given the opportunity. The reason many gamers choose Malphite is because he has the ability to create high mutations in urf. Just a tanker that has high damage, Malphite is one of the strongest generals URF 2019 LMHT.

Garen

In URF 2019, Garen can perform his death dance continuously. If you can't choose a guy, ban Garen immediately in battle.

With his half-second Verdict (E) ability, Garen can make the enemy team miserable if they have terrible items in hand. In addition, if Sona or Yuumi is accompanied, it is difficult for anyone to counter this pair in URF.

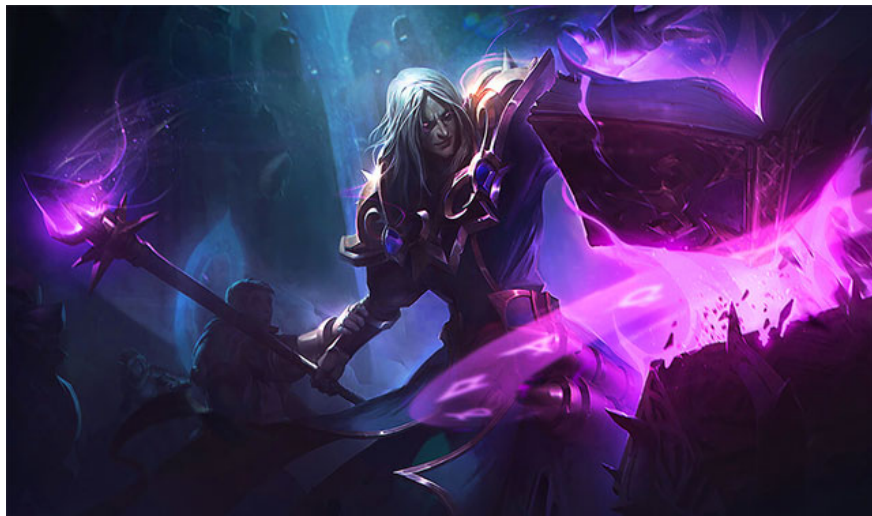

Fizz

Fizz's Dancing Boom ability can both deal damage and dodge effectively, with cooldown reduced to just 2 seconds at the end. If combined with Damage (Q), Fizz will become very mobile but also has the ability to outplay very scary.

Fizz's Final Summoner Monster (R) damage with high damage will swallow its prey in the blink of an eye. That's enough to say Fizz will be one of the most annoying members of URF mode.

Karthus

Karthus's Soul Sentence can make any champion with low health unable to escape. He just needs to stand in the bush and keep praying that the enemy team is always eating enough, has done great damage but does not need orientation, right Karthus will be a reasonable choice in the URF.

Sona

The support position in URF should be for Sona when she just does damage, heals, increases damage, increases movement speed, creates a shield so she can cover teammates very effectively.

The ultimate skill Cao Cao Trao can cause pretty good control on the enemy, in addition, skills with low cooldown can help her poke the enemy blood continuously. Rest assured that the late Sona will get stronger, so the enemy will not easily make her difficult.

Jax

Jax has a large amount of damage in URF and is rated extremely uncomfortable in this mode. He will always jump at the target and deal damage with Jump and Smash (Q). In addition, he also inhibits when using the Counterattack (E) to dodge the blow and counterattack with damage and stunning the opponent.

In addition, the ability Master (R) will help Jax increase magic resist and armor. With him, you will no longer worry in the duel or even accept 2, 3 or even the enemy team.

Vladimir

The current Red Dead in Worlds 2019 is already strong, into the URF he is even stronger when the cooldown is reduced sharply. Plus the ability to suck blood from Q, the ability to escape gank situations with W will make Vladimir quite extremely uncomfortable.

Vladimir can carry the team extremely well in URF despite teammates being constantly fed. Especially when he returns to the late game, he will become almost immortal with the ability to recover and the amount of burst damage.

These are pretty strong champions in URF that you cannot ignore, you can choose the names above and let opponents "land on the field" in Summoner's Rift. These are pretty easy to play and can maximize their power easily.
