TOP characters with best talent for combat in Genshin Impact, Concept of passive talent in Genshin Impact and TOP characters with best passive talent

All the characters in Genshin Impact have their own interesting stories, the ability to paralyze opponents, and unique talents specializing in different aspects. Characters can contribute a lot in helping players perfect their exploration and combat.

Let's explore the concept of passive talent and TOP characters with the best passive talent to fight and discover in Genshin Impact.

What is passive talent in Genshin Impact?

Passive talents provide special effects to game characters. These include Utility Passives, the first and fourth Ascension Passives.

Utility Passives, or Discovery Talents, are the most common of these abilities. They usually offer some kind of utility beyond combat and are automatically unlocked once the player acquires a character. The only character who doesn't have a passive talent is the Traveler.

The most special Utility Passives are cooking bonuses, reduced stamina, navigation, other bonuses,.

TOP best passive talented character in Genshin Impact

Out of the 50 characters currently available in Genshin Impact, it's hard to measure which is the best character to fight and explore in the game. However, gamers can prioritize choosing the characters in the list below when they need to fight and explore the world.

Yanfei: Encyclopedic Expertise

Qiqi used to be on top when it came to collecting Liyue specialties. However, the 4-star character Yanfei came and dethroned because of her talent.

Encyclopedic Expertise talent can help players spot Violetgrass and the like. In addition, Yanfei alone can be a DPS carrying the team at the end of the game. This makes her a good choice if people don't already own Qiqi.

Sayu: Many Passive Talents

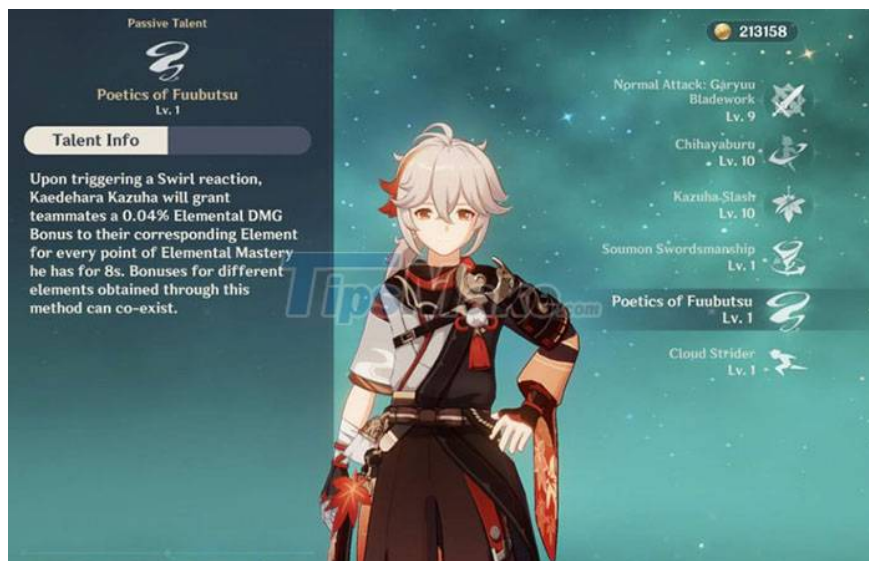

Since the animals in the Genshin Impact world move quite quickly when something approaches them, Sayu's skills stand out among other talents.

Sayu's initial passive talent mechanic makes her seem invisible to most creatures. With this function, catching Fireflies, Unagi Meat, Crab,. becomes a lot easier.

Besides, her No Work Today passive talent makes her a reliable healer in Co-op mode. And Sayu can also heal the whole team with Someone More Capable more every time he unleashes a vortex reaction.

Kazuha: Poetics of Fuubutsu

Kaedehara Kazuha is a 5 star character whose passive talent ultimately gives great power to any team that relies heavily on elemental reactions.

Kazuha's Poetics of Fuubutsu provides a substantial elemental damage bonus for every Elemental Mastery point on his body. Since it's easy to stack Elemental Mastery with artifacts, gamers will find Kazuha's bonus awesome in any fight.

Sucrose: Mollis Favonius & Astable Invention

Sucrose has a good but often underrated passive talent. Her second talent is called Mollis Favonius which allows a part of her Elemental Mastery to be shared with teammates. This is the ideal character to use with Diluc.

Meanwhile, Sucrose's talent for Astable Invention is truly amazing. Sucrose can double character enhancement products and weapon materials at a rate of 10%.
