

Top free email services

If you are looking for a free email service to use, you should consider the service providers offer, such as mailbox storage, spam filtering effect, interface. Easy to use, easy access program ... You can refer to the free email service below.

If you are looking for a free email service to use, you should consider the service providers offer, such as mailbox storage, spam filtering effect, interface. Easy to use, easy access program . You can refer to the free email service below.

1. Zoho Mail

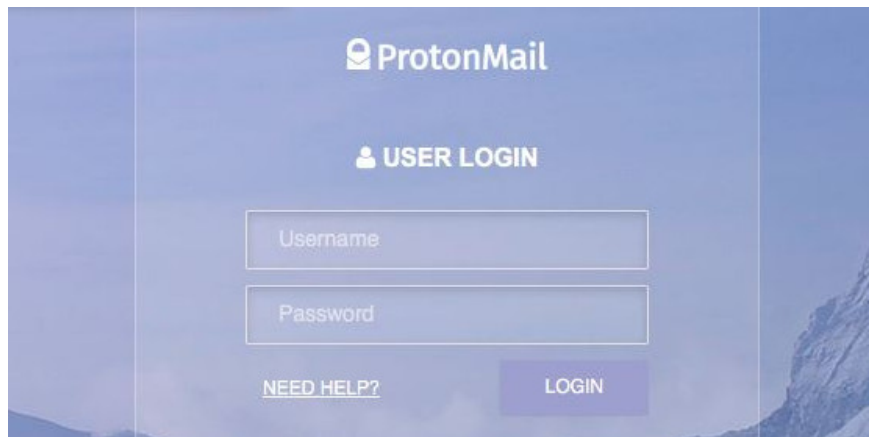

Zoho Mail is an email service with unlimited memory and a web interface with many features. Accessing POP and IMAP protocols allows you to set up Zoho Mail in your favorite email program or integrate it with sorting or filtering services. You can also use Zoho Mail as your primary email hub, which allows you to access and send mail with other email addresses. For the purpose of professional users, Zoho Mail is even more useful in organizing, recognizing important messages and contacts or sending replies with available templates.

2. Yandex.Mail

You can use Outlook Mail to email your hub on the web, which allows you to access your other POP and IMAP accounts, including all folders for IMAP. Its functionality can be greatly expanded with add-ons to categorize or schedule emails or save text messages online.

1. Set Outlook as the default email for Mac computers

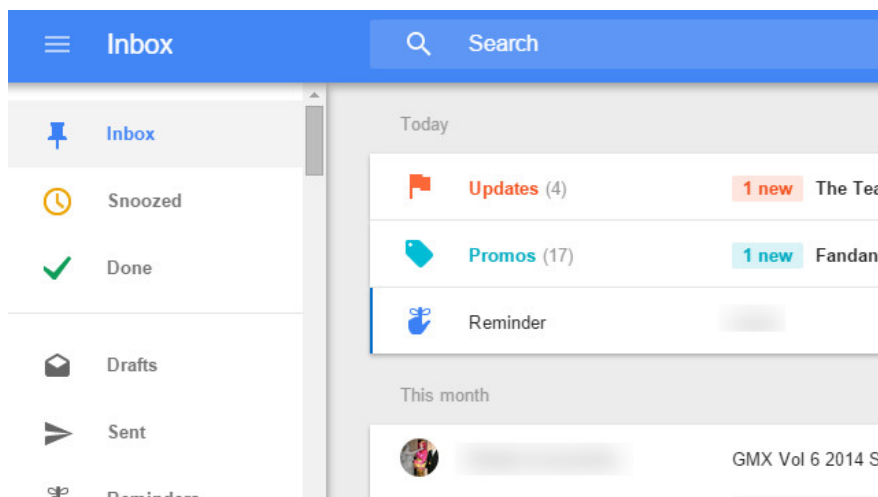

4. ProtonMail.com

ProtonMail allows you to use email safely and anonymously, it has free mobile applications and a strong web interface. Focusing on encryption means your email is safe from snoopers, but it also means that you can't easily export or access them using POP or IMAP protocols.

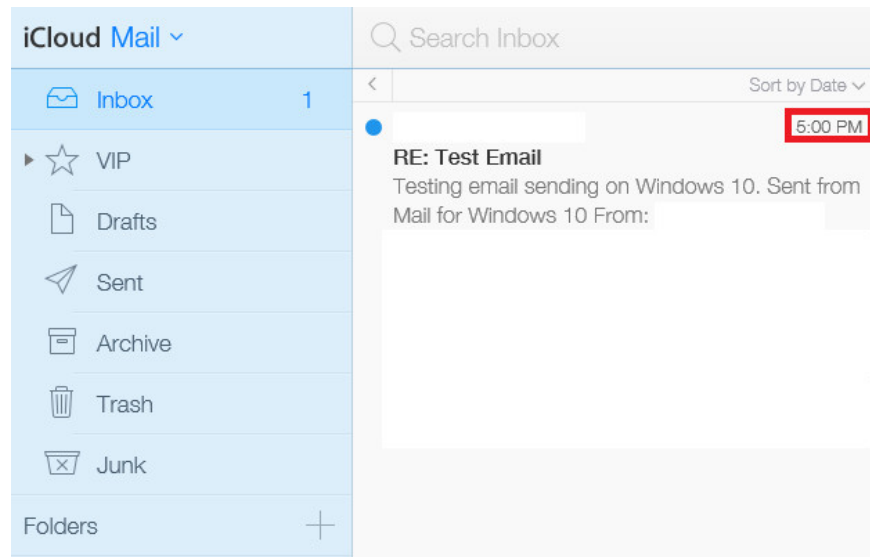

ProtonMail's web and application interface provides good email performance. You have shortcuts, rich text formats and spam filtering. With ProtonMail's encryption feature, you can even set your email to expire automatically.

5. Inbox by Gmail

Google Inbox is an alternative interface for Gmail designed to help you manage not only your emails but also the information found in those messages. Inbox by Gmail lets you handle grouped emails, which can increase email performance to some extent that may delay mail.

6. iCloud Mail

iCloud Mail is a free email service from Apple (for anyone who uses an Apple device such as an iPhone or a Mac) with ample memory, IMAP access and web applications. iCloud Mail focuses on performing basic tasks and without advertising.

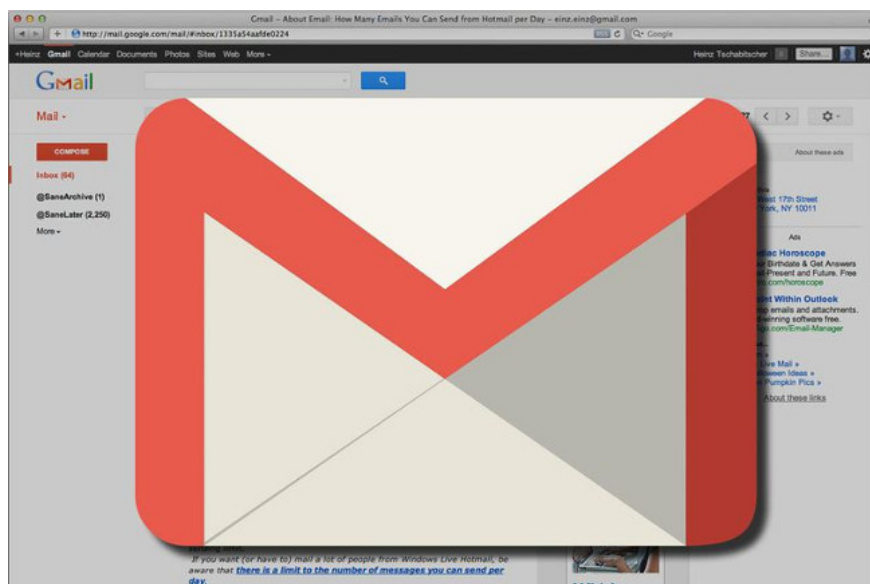

The interface at icloud.com does not provide more advanced labels or tools for mail productivity and organization, nor does it support access to other email accounts. POP access to iCloud Mail is also missing.

7. Mail.com and Gmx.com

Mail.com and GMX Mail are reliable email services that filter spam and viruses. Unlimited online storage allows you to store files by directory (missing labels or other tools to organize mail) instead of deleting with the interface and mobile application. As you answer, the interface provides access to colorful emails and a great emoji set. Access to POP and IMAP protocols is only available for paid add-ons.

8. Gmail.com

This is a free service from Google that integrates both email and chat. Unlimited storage capabilities, simple but very smart interface makes it easy for users to search and view mail content, users can also use the POP protocol to access this mailbox. Gmail's downside is that it does not support the IMAP protocol and places ads below read messages.

1. 11 great extensions for Gmail on Firefox

9. Inbox.com

Inbox.com not only gives users 5GB of storage, but also has gadgets that make users happy, such as fast, beautiful design and many other web functions like high-speed search, catalog options. . and support POP protocol.

10. Fastmail.fm

A free email service that is popular with the IMAP access protocol, useful as one of the most user-friendly and least-advertised web mail websites.

11. Yahoo! Mail

Users can rest assured when choosing Yahoo!Mail for the security, reliability and utilities of this free service. Spam filters are quite good and users can send large messages with Yahoo!Mail's HTML editor

12. Aim.com

AIM Mail is AOL's free mail service, 2GB of online storage, very good spam protection, easy to use with friendly interface. Unfortunately, AIM Mail lacks some features such as creating labels, creating folders, chaining messages for convenience and users can fix this with IMAP access protocol.

13. Goowy.com

Goowy mail is a web mail program with a friendly and easy-to-use interface using drag and drop, using a fun context menu. The added services of this service are calendar, RSS news reader and online games. Many other features of Goowy are also quite good.

14. Hotmail.com

Hotmail®

Easy to use, good security, but there are many limitations such as lack of POP and IMAP, no support for message security, many mail management tools like little improved spam filtering.

15. BigString.com

BigString.com free 1GB of mailboxes including mail authentication services and users can cancel or repair sent messages. Unfortunately, BigString does not equip incoming mail sorting functions and lacks mailbox organization tools.

16. Myway.com

My Way Mail is a fast, 'clean' and fun free email service

17. Care2 E-mail

No POP and IMAP support, maximum capacity of 100MB, spam filtering is quite good

You finished reading the article "Top free email services" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.