

TOP hardest places to find in Minecraft 1.18 Caves and Cliffs

Minecraft shines as an addictive open-world game that lets anyone play the way they want. This has naturally led to the creation of some fun, clever, and very entertaining custom buildings and biomes.

With Minecraft 1.18 Caves and Cliffs update, a lot of new features have been added to the game, including new locations and biomes. In particular, the following locations are the hardest to find in Minecraft 1.18.

TOP hardest places to find in Minecraft 1.18

End City

In Minecraft 1.18, it is very difficult for the player to reach the End City as this requires collecting enough Ender Eyes, finding the Stronghold and making the journey to this location. Moreover, gamers must defeat Ender Dragon, one of the most dangerous bosses, and cross the void to reach this city. The roads to these cities are quite dangerous and difficult to travel.

Mushroom Field

Mushroom Field is the best biome to grow mushrooms in Minecraft. But it's also one of the rarest biomes in the game. So it's hard to locate and make your way to the Mushroom Field to pick up and grow mushrooms and other useful ingredients in this field. The character needs a lot of mushrooms to eat and survive in this game.

Basalt Delta

Basalt Delta is one of the rarest Minecraft Nether locations. Moreover, the Nether in this game is very difficult to enter. It is also a dangerous area to explore, requiring the player to enter the Nether, locate the basalt plains, and travel to this biome. The player must be special when moving every turn on the map.

Badland

The Badland biome appears in the Overworld, but its incidence is very low. Eroded Badland is even rarer in Minecraft 1.18. Finding these biomes takes a lot of effort for gamers. Badland looks like desert but they have more colors of rocks and sand. So Badland is one of the most beautiful biomes in this game that players should visit.

Frozen Peak

Snowy Mountain is a new addition to Minecraft that is incredibly beautiful and fun to visit and explore. However, it is also challenging for those who want to conquer the frozen peak. These peaks are formed by blocks of ice and snow. So they have two main colors blue and white. Many people consider Frozen Peak one of the most beautiful locations in Minecraft to admire.
