

TOP most useful and interesting games on PBS KIDS Games parents should know

PBS KIDS is a fun educational website full of fun games, videos and quests from characters from many familiar TV series like Curious George, Wild Kratts and other PBS KIDS shows.

PBS KIDS is a fun educational website full of fun games, videos and quests from characters from many familiar TV series like Curious George, Wild Kratts and other PBS KIDS shows.

PBS KIDS Games is a collection of children's games designed for children aged 2-8 years old. The goal of the more than 100 mini games in this app is to entertain children, while at the same time educating and teaching them math, language and science skills. The app is free to download on iOS and Android.

If kids are passionate about learning, having fun with Daniel Tiger, the Kratt brothers and other characters, then the PBS KIDS games are sure to become one of their favorite activities.

These games encourage children to engage in skills related to science, math, creativity, with their favorite characters. The app provides a safe, kid-friendly play experience for all ages. Kids can easily browse and play games at home, on the road or anywhere. New games are added all the time (more than 200 are available now), so there are always new ways for kids to experience their favorite characters.

PBS KIDS owns an interesting game store, suitable for children of all ages

Games can also inspire parents and children to turn to off-screen simulations of arts, crafts, or science experiments.

With such a wide and varied collection of games, choosing a few can be quite challenging. So, let's explore the list of the most fun and rewarding games from PBS KIDS parents should know.

Games for kids 2-5 years old

Donkey's Froyo Stand from 'Donkey Hodie'

In the game from the new PBS KIDS series, Donkey Hodie, kids will practice a plan and persistently follow instructions to prepare orders of frozen yogurt for Donkey's friends.

After playing Donkey's Froyo Stand, encourage your child to play the simulation by using their imagination to create their own bakery or restaurant.

Party at Alma's from 'Alma's Way'

This first PBS KIDS SIMS game features characters and music from the new series, Alma's Way. Party at Alma's is an everyday life simulation game with virtual characters. In this game, children will help plan different parties for Alma, her family and friends. They can help with party preparations by choosing games, food, and songs for guests, and paying attention to what the characters want for the party.

Curious Campout from 'Elinor Wonders Why'

Young children will unleash their imagination with the open game Curious Campout. They can choose how and what they want to play, as they roam around the campground with Elinor, Ranger Rabbit, Ari and Olive.

Games for children from 5-8 years old

Pinkamagical Fairy Houses from 'Pinkalicious and Peterrific'

Help Pinkalicious and Peter build fairy houses. In Pinkamagical Fairy Houses, children will make careful decisions about which decorations to use based on what each fairy likes and has in their home. So each fairy has a house designed for their own preferences.

Duck Dash from 'Cyberchase'

In the game Duck Dash, the player joins a flock of migrating ducks and uses math skills to help them reach the winter house. Players of all abilities can change their game with different accessibility settings and features.

Cats and Dogs from 'Wild Kratts'

With Cats and Dogs, children will join the Kratts brothers and find lost animals on the savanna. Meet feral cats and dogs along the way, and learn about the different behaviors of various animals.

You finished reading the article "TOP most useful and interesting games on PBS KIDS Games parents should know" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.
