3. AndroidRock's Voice Changer

Among the apps listed, Voice Changer by AndroidRock is only considered average. However, this voice changer app promises to completely transform your voice with a variety of effects. The app supports tens of millions of effects, including old man, martian, fan, hoarse, drunk, underwater, etc., and works like most other voice changer apps. Simply record what you say and apply the filter.

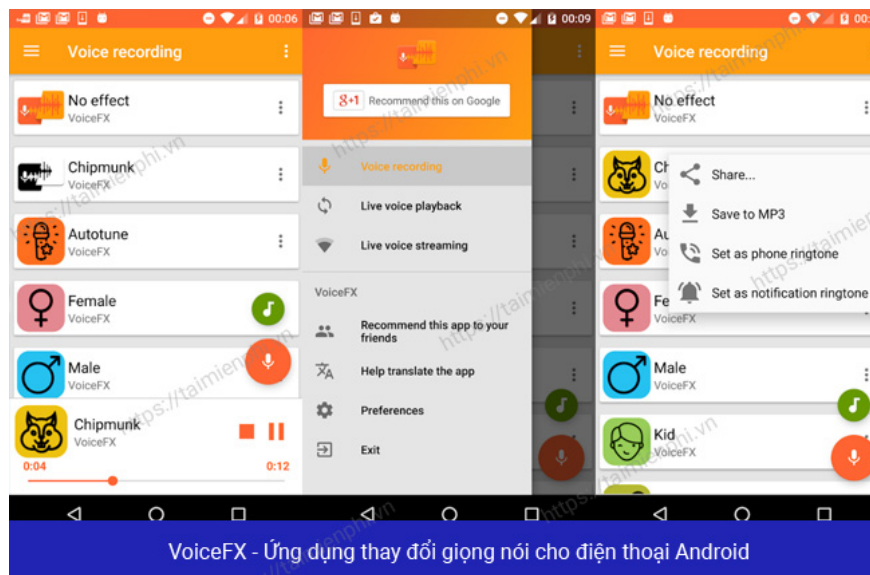

Additionally, the app allows users to apply filters to previously recorded audio files. Similar to Snapchat, AndroidRock's Voice Changer is also a free app, so it will include some ads.

4. VoiceFX

Overall, VoiceFX is a great option for transforming your speech, deserving a place on our list of the best voice changer apps.

In addition to common voice-changing functions, VoiceFX also features live feedback, instantly transforming your voice after you speak, allowing you to adjust your voice quickly and easily. The application can currently be installed and used on Android phones.

5. Voice Changer for Kids

Although it can't be used during phone calls, this voice-changing app allows you to create different voices using various audio filters.

At first glance, just hearing the name, Voice Changer for Kids, many people would probably think it's an app specifically for children, but in reality, the app is suitable for all ages and is very easy to use.

Voice Changer for Kids incorporates nearly 30 million voice effects, including all the popular effects you can find in other voice changer apps, plus Material Design features.

Additionally, the app also includes a free trial version for users.
