Among Us offers a level where a group of 4 to 10 Astronauts, and 1 to 3 Imposters, mix in it. The Imposter takes down teammates one by one without being caught, and can sabotage various ship equipment to distract the astronaut player.

Crew members, on the other hand, were required to complete missions around the map and identify Imposters before they sabotaged these missions.

Perfect tactic for finding Imposter in Among Us

The role of the Imposter Imposter is random, so players must play as an Astronaut for most of the game. Imposters also have some useful tools. In addition to being able to sabotage various mechanisms, they can lurk in vents and can self-report murders they have committed to confuse others.

In general, Among Us can be a challenging game for the Crew, especially if they are playing online with people they do not know. They can use CCTV to track the number of people in each room, but mainly rely on random signals and guesswork.

Recently, a Youtuber has devised a quite effective strategy to trap imposters. You can see the trick in the video below, both simple and effective.

The characters among us can stand so close together that they get mixed together. Two or even three characters can stand close together to make it appear as though there is only one person.

This procedure only requires 2 people standing together at an angle and waiting. In time, the Imposter will find them, and think that there is only one player standing, will rush in and take him / her down without any 'witnesses'.

However, there is a cooldown period for each kill, meaning that the others had enough time to report this attack and ask teammates to vote for the Imposter.

This trick is perfect and will definitely work perfectly if the player is quick to hide behind his teammates without being noticed by an Imposter.
