

Turn your phone into a watch like a Hollywood movie thanks to the application of the former CIA agent

The monitoring application on this new phone can detect motion, sound, light and even vibration using all the sensors on the device.

The monitoring application on the phone is very much available, but with some special features, Haven: Keep Watch deserves the best application on the phone to track and detect movements ever.

Haven is part of the Freedom Guardian of the Press Foundation - an organization run by former CIA agent Edward Snowden to create the best application for human rights defenders and journalists specializing in investigative reports.

This application was developed not for use on the main phone you use every day but for use on a backup phone.

Common monitoring applications only utilize the camera and microphone of the phone and Haven is different, it can detect motion, sound, light and even vibration using all sensors on the device. . Even, Haven can combine all sensors with each other and with services like Tor and Signal to keep everything as secure as possible. This remarkable feature is what makes Haven worthwhile.

When the Haven application is running, you have many options to choose what you want to discover. For example, if you put the phone on a table or in a cabinet to detect motion and do not need an image, you can turn off the camera.

When a strange sign or an intruder is detected, Haven will send push notifications (push notification) to your main phone. You can see what the other Haven phone has recorded during the time you left it at home remotely by accessing the Haven Log.

Bluetooth, Vibration, Key, LTE, Signal, Battery, 12:33

SAVE

Make some noise!

Set your phone on the table, and make noises in the room to find the right level to detect

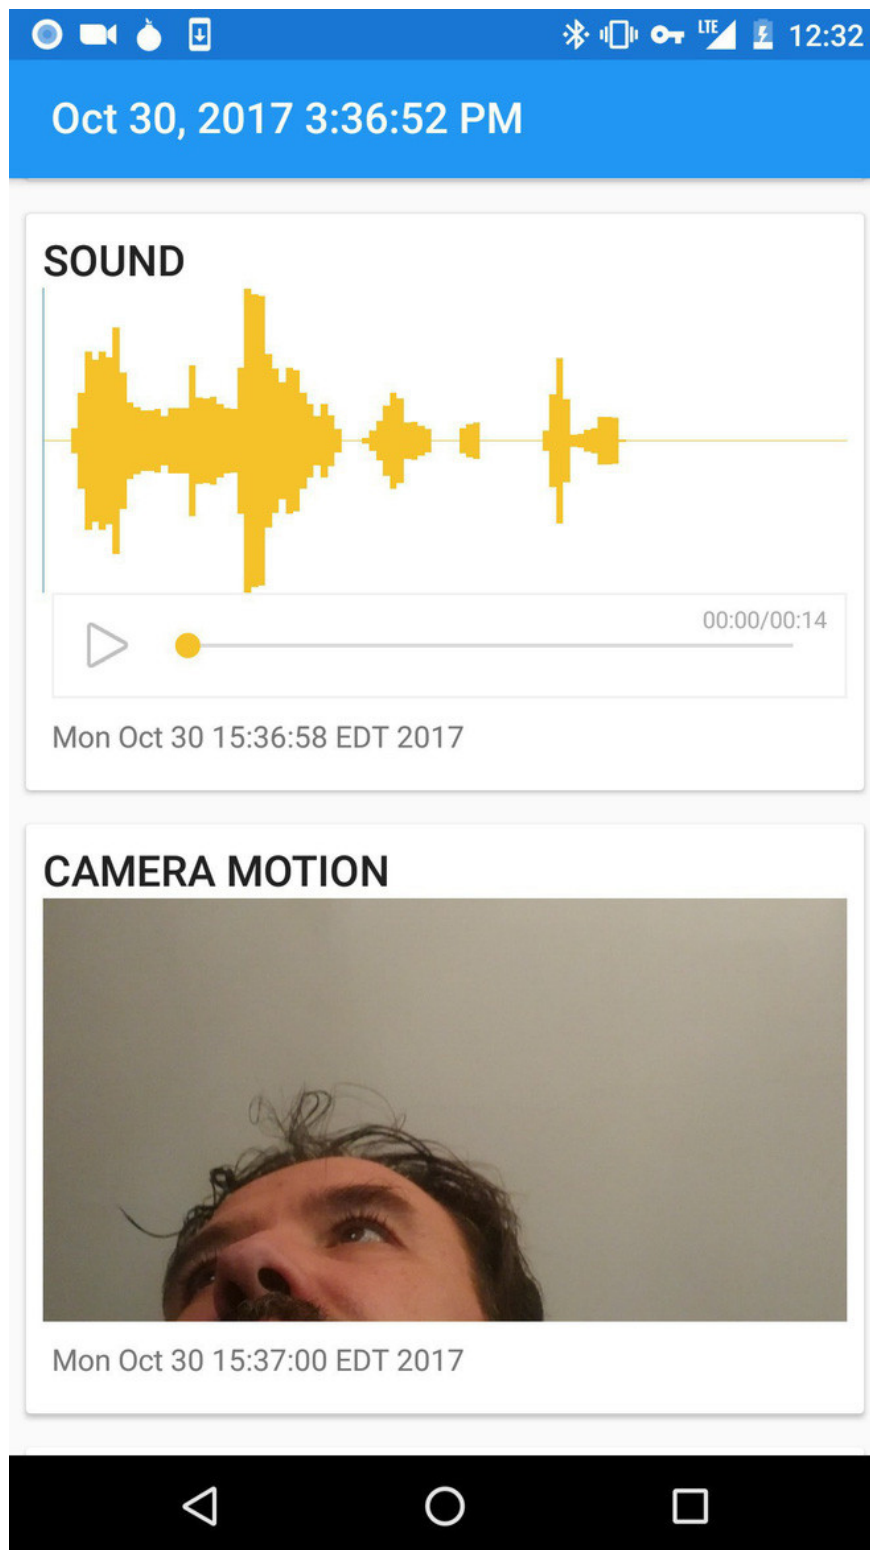

Slide wheel to change detection threshold

Current noise level is Currently, this application is only in the Public Beta stage, there may still be some minor bugs but still get very positive feedback from users. And you can easily download Haven from Play Store.

See more:

1. The best applications to monitor system performance on Android
2. Applications that track user location

3. Track, eavesdrop, and right to know

You finished reading the article "Turn your phone into a watch like a Hollywood movie thanks to the application of the former CIA agent" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.
