

Unpack Galaxy Tab S6: The best Android Tablet is better now, with trackpad, SPen wireless charging, in-screen fingerprint and dual camera

With the Galaxy Tab S6, Samsung continues to affirm its seriousness in launching really good premium tablets for Android users.

A few days before the launch of Note10, Samsung suddenly announced a whole new range of products, including the Galaxy Tab S6 - this year's rare high-end Android tablet. This machine is now available in Vietnam, priced at VND 18.49 million. Early customers also get an attractive gift set including a keyboard cover from Samsung, a 2-year warranty and a range of other incentives from the dealer.

The design is not new, gentle improvement

At a glance, Galaxy Tab S6 is still square style with rounded corners like the previous life. However, Samsung has made the device thinner, lighter and slightly reduced the screen border. The square camera cluster in the middle of the back is now moved to the upper corner, losing the LED flash, but in return has an extra image sensor with super wide-angle lens.

The Galaxy Tab S6 is thin, light, and a little more compact than the previous generation.

The position of the charging port, the 4 external AKG speakers and the buttons remain the same, but because of the change of the back material from glass to aluminum, there are more plastic separators. Feeling comfortable holding the Tab S6 in the hand. The border is thinner but not so thin that it can cause touch ups. In Vietnam, the device only sells with rough blue version.

Galaxy Tab S6 has light blue tones very "cool eyes".

Inside the Galaxy Tab S6 box is only a tub, charger cable and S Pen pen nib replacement tool. Unfortunately, Samsung doesn't include USB-C headphones like the Galaxy Note10. In addition, the charger included with the device is also a 15W type, fast charging but still takes about 3.5 hours to fully charge the battery.

Strong configuration

Galaxy Tab S6 owns Snapdragon 855 chip, 6GB RAM and 128GB spacious internal memory. The version sold in Vietnam has support for 4G LTE, allowing you to listen to text messages and have a memory card slot, suitable for users' tastes.

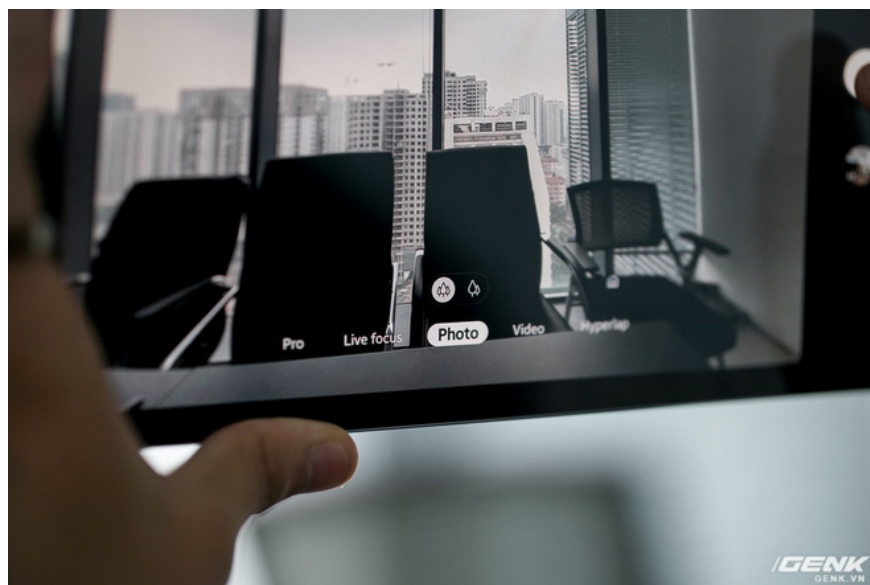

With the configuration of Galaxy Tab S6, you can rest assured on gaming performance.

QuadHD SuperAMOLED displays are still similar to the previous generation, with colors, brightness and contrast all very well. The camera system now has 2 sensors, a 13MP f / 2.0 wide-angle and an 8MP f / 2.2 ultra-wide angle 12mm. Meanwhile, the selfie camera keeps the 8MP resolution, f / 2.0 aperture.

Excellent screen quality in all aspects.

The camera has also been slightly upgraded with a super-wide 12mm lens.

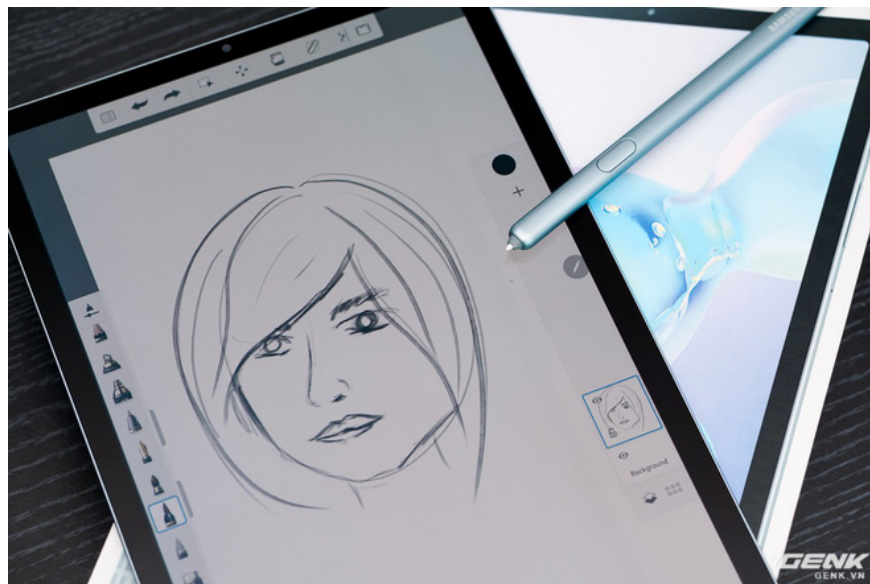

The 4-speaker system of the device is still extremely high quality, clear sound, clear and also integrates Dolby Atmos surround sound simulation for listening to music, watching movies or playing games. In addition, Samsung has replaced the retina sensor with an in-screen fingerprint sensor, which works in tandem with face recognition with the front camera.

Watching movies on Galaxy Tab S6 is very "happy", from images to sound are of superior quality.

The 7040mAh battery has been shortened from the previous generation, probably because the body is thinner. However, Samsung still promises equivalent usage time thanks to better software optimization.

Pen SPen (again) innovation

The SPen pen still supports force detection, plus Bluetooth control features.

Compared to the Note series, Samsung's tablets also favor the SPen pen more. In addition to the new appearance, this year's SPen also has a magnet to keep on the back, wireless charging capability and Bluetooth Low Energy support for new pen-flipping operations similar to the Note 10.

Perhaps Samsung plans to change it once a year until the SPen pen is perfect?

The back of the Tab S6 has a small piece of plastic that is the wireless charging position for the pen.

New keyboard cover cum cover

This year keyboard has added trackpad, used both in normal mode and DeX.

Last year's Galaxy Tab S4 came with a keyboard and a cover, but this year too, however, the new version brings a marked improvement in design and performance, typically the touchpad for use with DeX and a sturdy base. more comfortable to use on lap. However, many international users have been a little disappointed because the magnet holding the cover is too weak to hold it in place, just a few fingers flipped it right away.

Galaxy Tab S6 is now available on store shelves in Vietnam for VND 18.49 million.
