One thing you need to know is that PayPal charges a transaction fee in two ways: payment in purchases and personal payments . Each form will have a different way of charging:

Details of how to calculate PayPal fee will explain more clearly below.

Receive money via PayPal

Receiving payments or transfers via PayPal is as easy as sending. If you receive money in an individual form, you will not have to pay any other fees. However, if you act as a seller (for example, on online shopping sites like Amazon, Ebay .), you will have to pay a transaction fee for PayPal. Details I will update below.

You can track these transactions in your transaction details, you can also choose to print payment invoices or pay back if needed.

PayPal calculation method

In general, PayPal's fee schedule is quite cheap, of course, depending on the service you use.

If you make domestic payments in the United States from your account, PayPal doesn't charge any fees. If you transfer to another country, you will need to pay a fixed amount.

Payment in sales: The buyer will be free and the seller will be charged according to the formula: 2.9% - 3.9% of the total transaction + 0.30 USD + surcharge .

Personal payment: If you use money in your bank account or PayPal account, it will be free. In case you use money from Debit Card or Credit Card will be charged as follows: 2.9% of the total amount of + 0.30 USD (this fee can be selected as sender or payee).

The surcharge you need to pay usually depends on the total payment amount.

1. $ 0.00- $ 49.99: 99 cents per transaction.
2. $ 50.00- $ 99.99: $ 2.99 fee per transaction.
3. $ 100.00 +: charge $ 2.99 if payment goes to Canada and European countries, $ 4.99 for the remaining countries.

Note that the exchange rate of Paypal may be slightly different from the exchange rate in Vietnam (Exchange rate).

Why should you choose PayPal?

1. PayPal payment system is confidential.
2. Extensive system network, used all over the world quickly and conveniently.
3. Safe to trade for both sellers and buyers (the feature can reclaim the money after sending money to another account when fraudulent).
4. Good and fast customer service support.
5. Limit the disclosure of bank account information, because each payment, you do not have to enter the international payment card number (VISA, Mastercard) for providing PayPal when registering to create an account.

Overall, over the years, PayPal has become one of the most trusted online financial services. Many other services have been trying to compete, offering similar services, but hardly any "newcomers" have as strong and wide coverage as PayPal.

If you have never used this application, what are you waiting for? Quantrimang thinks you won't be disappointed!
