

Viber on the desktop to upgrade to version 4.2

After a short time launching Viber version 4.2 running on iOS, on June 13, Viber continued to release this improved version running on personal computers.

After a short time launching Viber version 4.2 running on iOS, on June 13, Viber continued to release this improved version running on personal computers.

Viber has a new version running on personal computers

Accordingly, Viber on the personal computer after version 4.2 will be changed back into a flat interface, the sticker panel can also be flexibly changed from position near the frame to type to the right edge of the interface of the application. use.

In particular, the version running on the personal computer after being updated also improved the ability to transmit video calls, to improve the quality of the experience for users.

In addition, Viber also announced that they have achieved an impressive number of 100 million Viber users worldwide online at the same time.

Particularly in Vietnam market, Viber has just provided a free 'Rudy' sticker set, written specifically for the 2014 World Cup season.

Currently, personal computer users can download Viber version 4.2 for free at: <http://viber.com/desktop> (including a version running on Windows, Mac and Linux).

You finished reading the article "Viber on the desktop to upgrade to version 4.2" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.
