

Viber updates the Push-to-talk feature

With this new feature, users can send voice messages easily. In addition, the new update also supports many funny images (sticker) in both free and paid forms.

With this new feature, users can send voice messages easily. In addition, the new update also supports many funny images (sticker) in both free and paid forms.

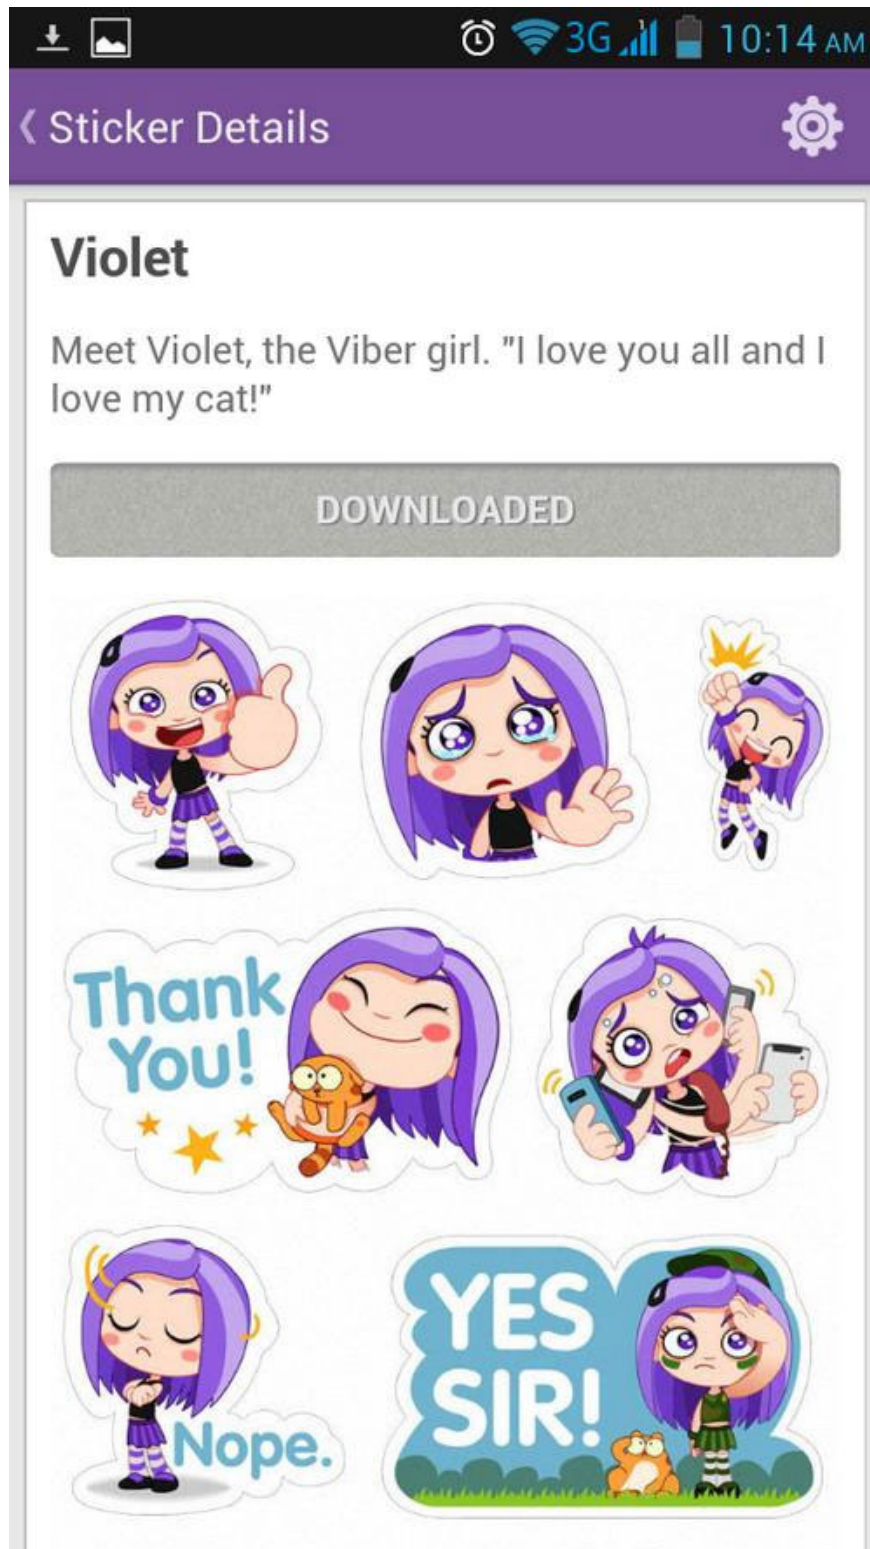

Last week could be considered a busy period of Viber when the company continuously released new software updates for BlackBerry and Windows Phone 8. Recently, the company has continued to release new version 4.0 upgrade for both iOS and Android platforms with many attractive improvements.

Viber 4.0 integrates Push-to-talk feature, allowing users to send voice messages to both platforms. When enabled, this feature will record the user's voice, send it and play it back to the corresponding recipient.

Viber 4.0 supports voice messaging and funny stickers.

Viber also offers users a large number of other funny stickers. Nearly half of them are allowed to buy licenses from TV shows and cartoon characters. The rest is designed by a team of 20 people scattered around the world.

Users can also download free funny images available or buy other stickers.

In addition, in the new version of Viber 4.0, users can also use the Viber Out feature to call anyone, including those who do not use this application.

Currently, Viber users for tablet versions can also use the upgraded features mentioned above.

You finished reading the article "Viber updates the Push-to-talk feature" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.
