

Watch the 'circus' aquarium dance with your eyes jumping over the water

Under the master's command, the aquarium fish swings up and leaps out of the water and 'flies' through the small ring high above. The video recorded the scene of the Siamese fish 'circus' which made many people unable to keep up.

Under the master's command, the aquarium fish swings up and leaps out of the water and "flies" through the small ring high above. The video recorded the scene of the Siamese fish 'circus' which made many people unable to keep up.

1. A rare sight, sparrows feed on goldfish as children
2. Herd of goldfish is as big as a disc, which is dangerous to the city of Canada
3. Dumb fish and 11 misunderstandings about animals

The Siamese fighting fish called Max, currently 10 weeks old, was raised and trained by Jane Tsai, a law student living in Ohio, USA.

Tsai said she spent a total of about 3 weeks training fish to perform well. At first she put her finger on the glass and dropped the food right above to train the fish to swim with her finger. After Max learned, Tsai stuck the dried worm worms on his fingertips and put them on the water to train him to jump up. As she thought, it quickly found a way to jump up to get food. Finally, she used a finger to hold a bracelet so it could jump over it.

Tsai shared more, Max was very smart and brave. He likes to explore the surroundings and new toys. She plans to try to teach Max to push a small ball on the water through the future.

You finished reading the article "Watch the 'circus' aquarium dance with your eyes jumping over the water" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.