

Weapons are easy to 'squeeze' the team in Rules of Survival

Having weapons in your hands on Rules of Survival is unlikely to become a weapon to attack an enemy, especially if you don't know how to use it, you can squeeze the team easily.

With a battle in Rules of Survival, weapons are the most necessary to protect themselves, protect allies and kill enemies. However there will be weapons that you do not know how to use and become weapons to attack yourself. When playing team mode, the weapons if you do not use it correctly will "squeeze" the team easily. ## The weapons "squeeze" the team in Rules of Survival

1. The grenade launchers

M32 is one of the outstanding rocket launchers and is used by many gamers. M32 has the advantage of a 6-cylinder revolutions, high speed, weight is not too heavy, so it can be moved easily. You can attack multiple targets with this M32 password.

M32 Grenade Gun if used at close range will deal damage to the user. Because M32 has a very wide damage range, it has a fast, accurate shooting speed. So if you don't know how to control and use, the ability to 'squeeze' yourself is very high. This situation is similar to the RPG.

2. Types of bullet storage in the game

Save bullets in the game can cause small area damage or create blind effects, burn if at close range. Due to the high damage, it is easy to damage the opponent, so if not used carefully, it will be easy to "squeeze" your team.

It is possible that some teammate missed his hand and so the bullet shot exploded in the same position that the team is hiding, and the consequences are probably already known. Or is on the way to attack the enemy, but his comrades who miss the bullets make the pulse frame dark. At that time, it was unknown if the enemy was us to attack.

Of course every weapon will not have a mode to attack the team, hurt the team. But if you don't know how to use weapons in Rules of Survival, you can harm yourself and your teammates.
