1. <https://www.launchaco.com/logo>

Launchaco is the simplest free logo building tool available today. If you don't have design skills and want some basic ideas to get started, this is a web application worth a try.

First, enter your company name, then Launchaco will display it in many different fonts. In each package of three fonts, you must select a font that you like best. Launchaco usefully explains the emotional effects that each font brings, making it easier to make choices.

Next, select a color scheme in which the application once again explains the emotions that it will transmit to the viewer. You then select up to three icons in the Launchaco library.

Wait a few seconds and Launchaco will show you a bunch of different logos. The application will mix and match the typefaces, palettes and icons it finds appropriate. Scroll down and the website will create more logo options. The options are almost endless.

Even if you like an option launched by Launchaco, you can still edit it if you want. Change colors, text, icons or layouts when you see fit. There is a quick sharing option to display to business partners or you can download the entire package as a zip file.

This package includes icons, options placed in different locations next to the company name and some monochrome options. A text file tells you which fonts are used, as well as the designer of the icon, and then you can edit or hire a designer if necessary.
