The note when choosing the pot for the induction cooker

1. Determine the demand for use

Before deciding what to buy, you should also consider the actual use needs of your family and when you buy the cooker from. Usually a set of pots will have from 3 to 5 pots with sizes ranging from 16 to 26cm. Depending on the needs, the number of family members you can make the most appropriate choice.

With small pots with a diameter of 16cm you can store meat from 1kg or less, samples of pots with a diameter of 24cm will be suitable for cooking soup, soup, porridge or using chicken to boil 1.5 to 2kg.

2. Designs and materials

A set of beautiful, luxurious pots will not only help your family kitchen space, but also help you be more interested in cooking dishes. Therefore, please choose the shiny, sturdy pot set with harmonious lines.

In terms of material, stainless steel cookware sets are usually made from common materials such as:

1. Inox 201: Composition of 18% Chromium and 3% Nickel. This type of stainless steel has the lowest quality among 3 types of stainless steel, it is very easy to oxidize and not magnetized.
2. Inox 430: Composition of 18% Chromium and 0.75% Nickel, basically Inox 430 has many properties similar to 201 stainless steel but thanks to the ability of magnetism, it is widely used in the field of household goods. use.
3. Stainless steel 304: Composition of 18% chromium and 10% nickel, is considered the highest quality stainless steel. Absolutely free of impurities, shiny surface, no magnetism as well as very difficult to oxidize or rust. Therefore the price is also much higher than the other two types.

Consider the economic conditions of the family to be able to choose the right material.

3. Should buy the bottom few pots

Popular models are 3-bottom and 5-bottomed pots. Inside:

1. 3-bottom pot: This pot is designed with 1 layer of aluminum in the middle of the heat dissipation effect with 2 layers of stainless steel 2 sides to help protect the pot. And to connect these three layers together, people often use high frequency welding.
2. 5-bottom pot: This pot will be thicker with an aluminum alloy core in the middle, followed by 2 layers of pure aluminum and finally 2 layers of stainless steel.

Each pot has its own advantages, for example, a 3-layer pot will give rapid heat transfer, lower price, but a 5-layer pot gives good resistance to warping, keeping heat more effectively.
