How is RF wave used to beautify skin? Effective or not?

One of the applications of many RF waves of interest to women is muscle lifting, rejuvenation and wrinkle removal technology (Ultherapy technology).

RF technology helps rejuvenate skin effectively.

The skin of the human body consists of 3 layers: epidermis, mesoderm and dermis. The middle layer is the place where the connective tissue fibers are composed of collagen fibers, elastin . which play a role in maintaining the smoothness and elasticity of the skin. However, under the influence of time, the impact of the environment such as smoke, sunlight . the amount of collagen and elastin will gradually decrease in quantity and quality, causing the skin to fail weak with symptoms such as wrinkled skin, sagging .

With intensive skin lift and beauty regeneration technology using RF waves, RF waves with a large heat energy source will be used to impact the dermis of the skin (without affecting the epidermis). , help the previously elastin elastin fibers shrink , enhance the production of new collagen and elastin . so the subcutaneous muscles are raised, firmer, the skin is no longer wrinkled, sagging. . Therefore, RF waves are often used in beauty, regenerating aging skin, sagging, slack, wrinkled or peeled orange .
