1. What is Steam?

Steam is not a game, but a platform, a shop that provides game licenses for games in the Valve system. Games on Steam are mostly paid for by the copyright to play, which is what the game makers desire to get the most. Thanks to Steam, they were able to avoid playing pirated games, but games on Steam can still be played illegally but will lose important features. For example: Co-op games (multiplayer) will only be played independently, the games will not automatically store data on Steam accounts, . That's why manufacturers Game makers always want their games to be available on Steam, which helps them limit the number of users who play illegally. And they also save money on renting / building servers, servers, workstations storing data, information . for games. Simply that they just need to produce the game and give it to Steam, Steam will take care of the server system, Server, Data storage for the games . (For Co-op titles).

In Vietnam, we also have shops selling games on Steam, but they are not distributors like Steam. The shops that sell games on Steam are just agents, they import game licenses from Steam to resell to users. Usually they will enter the Sale season to get a cheap price, a year on Steam has 4 huge Sale seasons from 40 to 70%. The Sale Calendar for those installments is named according to the season of the year: Spring Sale, Summer Sale, Autumn Sale, Winter Sale.
