

What is TeamViewer?

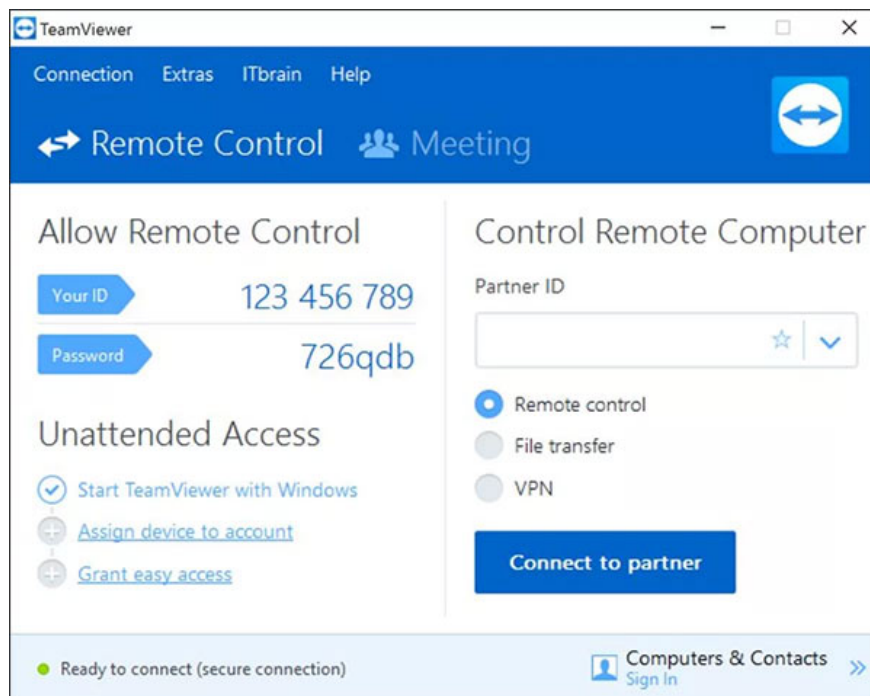

TeamViewer is a name that is familiar to many people, especially those who use computers regularly and work in the field of technology. So what is TeamViewer?

The concept of online learning, remote meeting or even remote computer control are not new and it has existed for a long time. And for those who work in the field of technology or more or less know this field, surely listen to TeamViewer. Let's find out what is TeamViewer in the article below.

Find out what is TeamViewer?

TeamViewer is a software installed on computers, and applications installed on phones, supporting many different operating systems developed by the company TeamViewer GmbH, founded in Goeppingen, Germany in 2005. Software Remote control, connect a remote computer to share data, or even manage remote computers.

As such, TeamViewer is used a lot in the case of customer support, working with remote colleagues, helping friends, or remote relatives without having to be present directly to solve problems on the computer.

TeamViewer is connected via a link code between connected devices, so users feel secure when using. Currently, TeamViewer is becoming the leading remote connection software in Vietnam and many countries in the world.

You finished reading the article "What is TeamViewer?" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.
