For office workers, the typing job is very important and it determines a lot of productivity. Each individual person has different typing speed and no one is like anyone else. However, to improve the typing speed, we can practice everyday will help you type better. What is the average typing speed of Vietnamese people? How much speed do you gain? In this article, Software Tips will work with you to solve those problems.

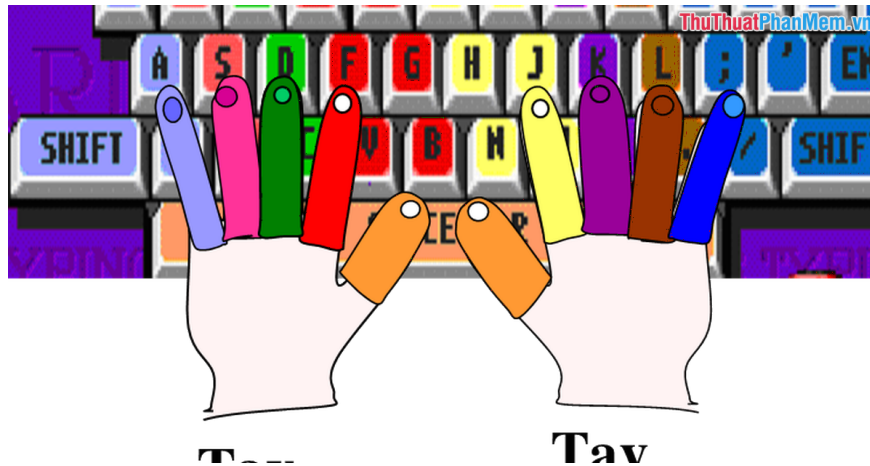

1. What is the average typing speed?

The average typing speed in the world is divided into different languages ??because they are unique. The division of languages ??creates a balance because each typeface has a different typing method, so they cannot be identical and comparable with each other. For example, English will type much faster than Vietnamese because they do not have to write accents, while Vietnamese signs, they have more time-consuming characters. So the average typing speed we refer to in this article is the average typing speed of Vietnamese people when typing Vietnamese. Typing speed is indicated by the parameters WPM, WPM stands for Word per minute (ie the number of words typed in 1 minute).

1. Low typing speed: 0-60 PWM
2. Average typing speed: 60-90 PWM
3. High typing speed: 90-130 PWM
4. Professional typing speed: 130-170 PWM

In fact, as we type more and more, we will remember the position of the characters on the keyboard. Once we remember the key position, our typing speed is improved by not having to look at the characters and find them. 10 hand typing speed on the keyboard is currently the fastest and the least effective error. However, there are some people who do not use up to 10 fingers but still get very good typing results.

When we're typing, we're not just concerned with speed, we're also concerned about accuracy. If you type quickly and wrongly, it will not solve anything because the time to edit is much more time than writing. Because of that you have to balance between speed and accuracy to achieve the highest efficiency. Hard typing practice will be the best way to improve the speed through each day.

2. How to check the typing speed

To test the typing speed, you need to type a random text for the given and the system will see how many words you typed and how many wrong. How many keystrokes do you press? Generally web pages that support Vietnamese typing are very simple and easy to check. Some Vietnamese websites that are used to check the typing speed are 10Fastfingers because it supports Vietnamese.
