The Motorola Razr 2019, although equipped with a 6.2-inch plastic OLED folding screen, is quite fragile, but it feels quite solid when playing games.

Motorola has recently launched the Razr 2019 folding screen smartphone that many users enjoy. When admiring the actual images of this flip smartphone, many people have been wondering, is gaming on this smartphone okay?

Booredatwork - a YouTuber has helped many people answer this question. He played the game on the folding screen smartphone Motorola Razr 2019 and recorded the whole process in one video.

Booredatwork shared that, Motorola Razr 2019 although equipped with a 6.2-inch OLED folding screen is quite fragile, but it feels quite solid when playing games.

With a fairly long design, similar to Sony Xperia 1 but Motorola Razr 2019 still gives users a sense of comfort when playing games. But if you have small hands, it will be a bit difficult.

Motorola Razr 2019 has a quite strong configuration with Snapdragon 710 chipset, 6GB Ram, 128GB of internal memory. Booredatwork tried playing Call of Duty Mobile on Motorola Razr 2019 and felt that the game load machine was quite fast, providing a smooth gaming experience. However, because the device is only equipped with a battery of about 2510 mAh, the amount of time for playing games is quite little.

Although it takes more time to evaluate carefully, Booredatwork's initial perception of the quality of the speakers on the Motorola Razr 2019 is quite good. This YouTuber also shared that the folding screen of Motorola Razr 2019 does not see clearly the folds thanks to the intelligent hinge mechanism, which Motorola has done better than Samsung with Galaxy Fold.

The 2019 Motorola Razr, priced at US $ 1500, is the cheapest folding screen smartphone on the market.

Booredatwork said that if you are a person who likes to experience new technology and want a compact smartphone, the Motorola Razr 2019 is really not a bad choice.
