

What's new in LibreOffice version 4.4?

Developers of The Document Foundation (a branch separated from OpenOffice.org) have released the open source Office software package LibreOffice version 4.4 with many improvements in user interface and features.

Developers of The Document Foundation (a branch separated from OpenOffice.org) have released the open source Office software package LibreOffice version 4.4 with many improvements in user interface and features.

Download LibreOffice for free

LibreOffice is a free and open source office suite released by The Document Foundation in 2011. As of this latest version, LibreOffice has undergone various upgrade versions. with many new features. In addition to the ability to view, create and edit text documents, spreadsheets or presentations from the Microsoft Office suite, LibreOffice also contains database applications, drawing and math applications.

In version 4.4, LibreOffice introduced will bring a new user interface and features such as:

1. Support electronic signature in PDF file
2. The Toolbar bar is rearranged.
3. Improving context menus, status bar and Sidebar.
4. Support OpenGL conversion process on Windows.

5. Theme with SIFR monochrome icon is expanded and set as default on OS X.
6. Free installation of Carlito and Caladea fonts to replace Microsoft's Calibri and Cambria.
7. Add some new default templates.
8. Improved Track Changes toolbar.
9. Enhance interoperability with OOXML file formats.

You finished reading the article "What's new in LibreOffice version 4.4?" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.
