

When do I need to replace the laptop keyboard? Is replacing keyboard expensive?

Changing laptop keyboard is quite expensive and also takes effort to bring goods. So when do we have to replace the keyboard? Always need to find another solution?

The laptop keyboard and computer in general are extremely important parts, if broken, it is almost impossible to use a computer. So when the keyboard is broken, which error should replace the laptop keyboard, which error has a different solution?

1. Laptop keyboard errors are common

Every day, we type thousands of times on keyboard buttons. This is the most affected part of the machine. Errors with the keyboard can be very diverse, the most common are the following:

1. The keyboard is completely paralyzed, could not type any keys
2. The keyboard is disordered, typing this key shows the symbol of another key, not one key has many keys, typing many keys indicates a key, .
3. The keyboard is damaged and cannot be typed on one or some keys
4. The keyboard is unusually hot

Keyboard errors can be very diverse, and can stem from many causes, not keyboard hardware

2. Where to replace laptop keyboard?

First of all, you have to confirm that you don't need to replace your laptop keyboard all the time. A lot of keyboard errors are completely fixable, no need to spend money and effort to replace them. You should find solutions before you think about changing the entire keyboard. Often there will be the following fix:

1. Replace one or several broken keyboard buttons
2. Restart the computer in case the whole keyboard is frozen
3. Adjust font, language in case the keyboard is disordered

So when do you need the final solution to replace the keyboard? That's after you've tried every possible way and still can't fix the keyboard. Ideally, you should bring your laptop to a professional repair shop for technicians to 'catch the disease' and offer the most reasonable solution.

We can replace the laptop keys one by one for a much cheaper price

3. Notes to know when replacing Laptop keyboard

1. The keyboard replacement price is not cheap

Genuine laptop keyboards cost from several hundred thousand dong to millions of dong. The higher the laptop model, the more expensive the replacement keyboard. So you need to consider carefully and try other fixes before replacing the keyboard instead.

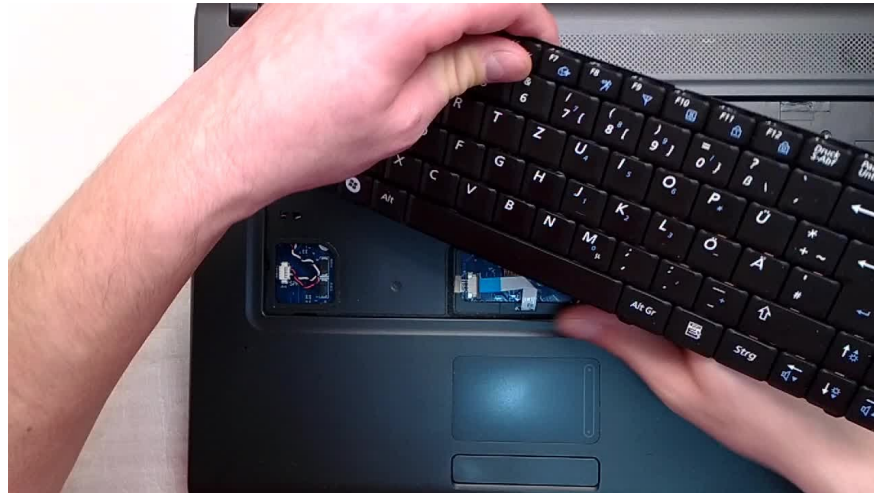

1. Must buy a genuine keyboard to replace

When you need to replace it, it is best to buy a genuine keyboard specifically designed for the device. Installing a keyboard from another manufacturer or carrier floating on the market may not be compatible or damage the laptop. But if using an old laptop model, finding a standard keyboard replacement model is not easy. In this case, you should bring the device to the electrical facility, large laptop for advice.

1. Do not replace the keyboard yourself

Changing keyboard is extremely complicated, requires knowledge and high technical level. If you do it yourself, it can also affect other components. If you are not a professional, it is best to bring a laptop to replace the keyboard. And the repair address also needs to be a reputable facility. After replacing the keyboard, carefully check it again by trying it out. If you can find a repair facility, replace the keyboard with a warranty, the better.

Removing and installing a new keyboard requires meticulous workmanship, not done by yourself
Changing a laptop keyboard is one of the most common repairs when using a laptop. In the meantime, you can use the virtual keyboard on your laptop or install a separate keyboard to not miss your work.

You finished reading the article "When do I need to replace the laptop keyboard? Is replacing keyboard expensive?" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.