

Where is the fastest speed in the world?

Korea has a wifi speed of 2 times faster in Toronto, Canada.

According to a recent study by the Korea Telecommunications Operators Association, the wifi speed in this country is 133.4 Megabites per second. This speed surpasses big countries like Canada, France, and the United States and helps Korea become the fastest wifi country in the world.

Korea has a wifi speed of 2 times faster in Toronto, Canada. With wifi speeds of 53.9 Mbps, France's Paris capital was in third place and New York (USA) lagged behind with 31 Mbps.

In this country, the average connection speed is 34 Mbps, while the largest cities in the world only reach 17-30 Mbps. In addition, the public wifi speed here is also 10 times faster than the city of London (England) and New York (USA), at about 290 Mbps.

According to researchers, the Internet infrastructure in Korea is very good, and it is the deciding factor that makes the speed of wifi in this country so fast.

Korea is also one of the first countries to deploy the 5G technology network.

See more:

1. Wi-Fi 6, how will the next Wi-Fi version change the concept of wireless networks?
2. Vietnam is on the list of 50 countries with speeds of 4G / LTE faster than Wi-Fi
3. Learn about WiGig, the new super fast WiFi standard

You finished reading the article "Where is the fastest speed in the world?" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.

