

Which Poker Players Should You Take Tips From?

In any area of expertise, you'll find that the most successful individuals in the field are not always the best coaches. Teaching is a skill in itself that needs a bit of practice and talent to master.

A great way to find the best teachers in 2021 is to find professionals with a social media presence.

As web-based gambling on many platforms has become more popular around the world, so too has gambling-related entertainment online such as that which can be found at GGPoker Canada. Streamers often provide tips or coaching as a source of income. Streamers who are professional poker players don't just know the game; they've found success engaging large numbers of viewers with their personalities. They entertain audiences for hours at a time during a stream. Since it's just them in front of the camera, you get into their heads and see the reasoning behind their thought processes.

The best conditions for teaching are found in one-on-one, live teacher-to-student environments. Streaming online is more convenient, and a single streamer earnestly trying to engage with a live audience sweetens the compromise.

Another advantage of seeing streamers play live is getting a chance to hear from them when they are in what the sports and games community calls the zone. This is when they have a focused clarity in the area of their game, and you can witness their learning process raw instead of filtered through an organized lesson.

Here are a few of our top picks for players to follow and get great poker tips.

Picture 1 of Which Poker Players Should You Take Tips From?

Top Streamers for Poker Tips

These are professional poker players who have glowing records of success in the game. They also produce video content that grants ordinary people access to a wealth of poker knowledge and experience. We also learn best when we're entertained, and these players dedicate hours in their posted schedules to bringing you content.

You may find some more relatable than others, so give them a try and find the coach whose tips best fit your needs.

On Twitch

Twitch is perhaps most famous for its video game streaming. It has become a platform for more generalized content ranging from politics, poker, music, and even art. These two streamers have their most extensive online following on the site.

Lex Veldhuis

Lex Veldhuis of the Netherlands runs the #2 most-watched English poker channel on twitch. He's been a pro for 16 years and is the 15th fastest growing channel on Twitch. Readers should be warned he makes extensive use of mature language in his videos and streams, so if your delicate ears are easily offended, don't watch his videos.

If your ears are robust enough for, shall we say, 'flowery language' he also has a Youtube, Instagram, and Twitter presence if you'd prefer to find him on those platforms.

Kevin Martin

Kevin is Canadian and has the #25 most-watched English poker channel on Twitch. He primarily streams live tournament play and can also be found on Twitter and Instagram.

On Youtube

The following content creators have their most significant following on Youtube. Their content is tailored better for structured tips. They release videos dedicating ten or more minutes to a particular topic of their choice, and viewer comments influence what tips they discuss.

Daniel Negreanu

Six-time world series of poker champion Daniel Negreanu's videos are polished and professionally edited with graphics to help guide the lesson during his tips and hand breakdowns. He also live-streams and runs a podcast on the site.

Jonathan Little

Jonathan has written 14 best-selling books with instructional tips for poker. In addition to the free video content he uploads to Youtube, you can also visit his website for poker coaching.

Find What Clicks

Often how information is presented is the difference between whether the audience remembers or integrates the lesson. Social media makes finding the particular personality that appeals to you more accessible than ever before. We hope our list helps you find the tips that work for you.

Picture 2 of Which Poker Players Should You Take Tips From?

You finished reading the article "Which Poker Players Should You Take Tips From?" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.