

Why is it foolish to say that when you love the smartest women?

Most modern women are always smart, independent and sophisticated people who can use their own strength to achieve success in life and work as men. So why is it so foolish to say that when you love the smartest women?

Most modern women are always smart, independent and sophisticated people who can use their own strength to achieve success in life and work as men. However, it seems that emotional problems make all their advantages disappear. Suddenly, smart women lose their self-reliance, inherent self-reliance and become like to overdo things. They forget that they should enjoy the feeling of happiness in love rather than worrying too much. So why can love make the smartest women foolish?

When love, women often choose to listen to emotions rather than reason

Women today are modern, liberal people in the way they look at things and things, until they get caught up in "love". Suddenly, they cannot control themselves with their minds, instead they will be sentenced to the throne to control them. Moreover, when loving women's judgment returns to zero. In the past, women were able to predict every situation that occurred at hand, but when they fell in love with seemingly teenage women, behave like teenage girls, yearning for love and almost becoming blinded by thinking with the heart.

When love, women like to be immersed in the good things of love and despite the consequences

Women are more likely to be fascinated by the passionate feelings that we cannot see during the single time. And naturally, they just want to live completely with those moments. They cannot see anything other than love and themselves. The world became pale and only two people remained. A very beautiful, passionate but quite stupid emotion. This is the way that smart women become stupid in love.

When in love, women aspire to get the recognition of others for their love

Smart and successful women are the ones who often shy and lack confidence in love. They need the recognition of others to feel safe when they love and just feel satisfied when the other half appreciates and appreciates them.

The power of desire is stronger than the power of reason

In love, sex plays a very important role. Sometimes women have more " desires " than men. The passion, passion in the arms of someone is hard to compare. So when in love, sometimes women seem to sink in the emotions of love but forget the screams that remind themselves from reason.

When love, memory of women is reduced

According to research from Hartpury University in the UK, women aged 18-24 often forget their past love experiences, so they easily repeat mistakes in love. They seem to forget the traits I hate in my ex and continue to date new people who have the same personality as the old ones. Women who love often forget all the blood lessons they have experienced.

When love, women are more drunk in love

Even the most powerful people get drunk in love. When we love, we can easily decide everything as a drunkard and only when we have to receive the consequences can we wake up.

When love, women are vulnerable and difficult to heal

Women are very good at setting up barriers to protect themselves but after the moment of taking them down because someone also forgets how to " rebuild " those safety walls.

Women are often the ones who give hearts and feelings to the most unworthy people. Only so many reasons can it be learned how women become weak and stupid. If you confuse someone's heart, they take a lot of time, sometimes exchanging young years to heal the wound caused by love. Women are foolish right?

Refer to some more articles:

1. 17 invaluable lessons that love has taught us
2. 25 things women say often make men misunderstand
3. 7 ways to practice unconditional love you need to know

Having fun!

You finished reading the article "Why is it foolish to say that when you love the smartest women?" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.
