

Will the Dislike button on YouTube be removed?

Dislike button is being reviewed by YouTube to eliminate bad purposes affecting video.

YouTube has a like button and dislike so viewers can express their views on the video. However, this dislike button sometimes causes content creators and YouTube channels to have bad effects. So the project director at YouTube, Mr. Tom Leung gave some solutions to the dislike problem on Channel Creator Insider.

The group is also working on a YouTube channel manager to enable or disable like or dislike buttons at any time. But this also affects public content creators and video creators for statistical purposes.

Mr. Leung also suggested that there should be more options for the reason of pressing the dislike button so that content creators can get more accurate feedback. But to do this, content creators must receive statistical data in Analytics or Creator Studio, which is quite complicated.

With the idea of ??completely removing the dislike button, Mr. Leung did not approve, when this was not the most suitable method due to non-democracy. And the YouTube development team continues to look for the best idea to solve the dislike problem on YouTube.
