

Will VSmart users have a 'VMessage' messaging service similar to iMessage?

VinSmart is developing a calling and messaging app exclusively for Vsmart users and is completely free.

Vsmart has recently launched the VOS 2.5 Beta update for Vsmart Live users with many interesting and useful new features to enhance the user experience. One of them is an option called "VinSmart call message" with the "Call and send messages to other Vsmart devices without incurring charges" in the Settings section.

This feature is still in the development process because the Settings application will immediately crash when users click on this item. But from what we have, we can understand that VinSmart is developing a completely free calling and messaging application exclusively for Vsmart users.

The option under Settings reveals the calling / messaging service that Vsmart is developing.

VinSmart has not disclosed the name of its private messaging and calling service but based on some VOS 2.5 system files many believe that the chosen name is most likely "VMessage".

The deployment of a call / messaging application specifically for users of their products has been deployed by many smartphone companies before but unfortunately most of them failed, except iMessage and Apple's

FaceTime because they could not compete. with applications like Facebook Messenger, WhatsApp .

BKAV has also provided Btalk service specifically for Bphone but it could not avoid the sad outcome like most other smartphone companies.

1. Discovering a Vsmart phone factory in Hoa Lac (Hanoi)
2. Experience Haylou LS01, Xiaomi's 500,000-priced smartwatch, worth buying or not?

You finished reading the article "Will VSmart users have a 'VMessage' messaging service similar to iMessage?" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.