

Write Happy New Year in 10 different programming languages

Happy New Year 2019 in more than 10 most popular programming languages ??is a way for coders to send New Year greetings to their friends, relatives and partners during the New Year to spring.

Happy New Year 2019 in more than 10 most popular programming languages ??is a way for coders to send New Year greetings to their friends, relatives and partners during the New Year to spring.

More specifically, you can use these codes in your apps, websites, and the time will automatically jump without you having to worry about what year it is now, or you have to come back and fix your hands whenever the new year come.

Let TipsMake.com see how to write these bold New Year greetings.

Happy New Year in Python:

```
from datetime import date print ("Chúc m?ng n?m m?
i",date.today().year,"!") #vi?t b?i TipsMake.com
```

Happy New Year in PHP

```
echo "Chúc m?ng n?m m?i ", date("Y"), "!"; /code by TipsMake.com/
```

Happy New Year with C / C ++

```
#include #include int main() { time_t now = time(NULL); struct tm* local = local
?ng n?m m?
i %d!", local->tm_year + 1900); return 0; /code by TipsMake.com/ }
```

Happy New Year Code with JavaScript:

```
document.write(new Date().getFullYear());
```

Write happy new year in Perl:

```
my $year = (localtime)[5]; print "Chúc m?ng n?m m?
i ", $year + 1900, "!"; #code by Quantrimang
```

Write a happy new year code with Ruby:

```
print "Chúc m?ng n?m m?i ", Time.now.year, "! " #Code by TipsMake.com #N?
u ch? c?n hi?n th? n?m, b?n c? th? dùng l?nh puts Time.now.year
```

Happy New Year Code in Java:

```
import java.util.; import java.text.; public class Apollo { public static void
?ng n?m m?i " + SimpleDateFormat.format(date)+"!"); } }
```

Happy New Year Code in Lua:

```
print("Chúc m?ng n?m m?
i",os.date("%t").year,"!") --[[Code by TipsMake.com--]]
```

Happy New Year code in Clojure:

```
(let [date (java.util.Date.) sdf (java.text.SimpleDateFormat. "yyyy")] (println
?ng n?m m?i"(.format sdf date)+"!")) ;;Code by TipsMake.com
```

Happy New Year Code in C #:

```
using System; class Program { static void Main(string[] args) { Console.WriteLine
?ng n?m m?i " + DateTime.Now.Year + "!"); /TipsMake.com/ } }
```

Do you have a more unique Happy New Year code? Please share for yourself and others by commenting below this article.

You finished reading the article "Write Happy New Year in 10 different programming languages" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.