

Yahoo changes the home page interface

Yahoo on 3.3 gives a notice that has changed the look of its home page (vn.yahoo.com), to give users a modern, intuitive experience that is suitable for all devices from smartphones, tablets to personal computers.

Yahoo on 3.3 gives a notice that has changed the look of its home page (vn.yahoo.com), to give users a modern, intuitive experience that is suitable for all devices from smartphones, tablets to personal computers.

New interface of Yahoo Vietnam site

According to Yahoo, this interface change is applied to 6 countries: Singapore, Malaysia, Indonesia, Philippines, Vietnam and India, making it easy for users to find the content they are interested in - all both on one page and accessible from any device.

Specifically, users can experience the new, more friendly Yahoo Home page with a simplified navigation bar that can browse interesting news, check email, stock information, post photos, view Weather and see your horoscope star right in a main management interface.

In addition, the new interface is also integrated with Facebook, allowing users to quickly update their friends' birthdays or allow saving / deleting favorite / unpopular news streams on Yahoo.

You finished reading the article "Yahoo changes the home page interface" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.

