

ZTE sent a trial invitation to launch a new product on September 16

Through Vine account, ZTE branch in the US has officially sent an invitation to the press to attend an event that will be officially organized by the company on September 16 in New York City.

Through Vine account, ZTE branch in the US has officially sent an invitation to the press to attend an event that will be officially organized by the company on September 16 in New York City.

The time ZTE chooses is the time after big technology companies such as Samsung, Apple, Asus, HTC, etc. promise to show new models at the beginning of September. This point is the perfect choice for Chinese technology firms in the face of extremely fierce competition pressure from other technology giants.

As in the broadcast message, ZTE popped up its new product model called " the next hot thing " which translates as " the next special thing " that comes with the introduction of a word show. The hottest artists of the summer will be arranged in the event.

However, with only these sent messages, it does not seem to bring much speculation to analysts because it can be any device either smartphone or tablet.

ZTE recently released its latest super product ZTE Nubia Z7 and officially released mini Nubia 5s in the US market. Therefore, it is also possible that the company will suddenly launch the next version of Nubia Z7, an Android tablet model or a new generation smartwatch. Whatever the product, however, all doubts will soon be released at the upcoming ZTE event on September 16.

You finished reading the article "ZTE sent a trial invitation to launch a new product on September 16" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.

